At 4D Trucking & Logistics, Inc, we provide drayage services for Union Pacific's intermodal product, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country. The American freight rail network is the backbone of our operations, enabling us to move products sustainably and efficiently while supporting jobs and economic growth.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact supply schedules.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety.
- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.
Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As an 18 year supplier to Union Pacific Railroad, Accessories Plus, Inc. is proud to express our strong support for the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

Since 2006, we have provided locomotive servicing, railcar repair, air brake testing, inspections, and other essential support functions to Union Pacific, contributing to the safe and efficient movement of freight across the country. As Union Pacific builds America, we help keep the power moving. Furthermore, as a minority contractor with over one million touches to Union Pacific equipment, we've seen firsthand their professionalism and their commitment to operational excellence.

We believe the proposed merger will deliver significant benefits for Union Pacific's partners and the broader rail industry, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific has consistently fostered an environment where suppliers can thrive by delivering safe, efficient, and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate growth opportunities as supply demands expand following the merger.
- Expanded Reach: The combined network will enhance Union Pacific's ability to serve existing customers and reach new ones across a broader geographic footprint.
- Improved Service Reliability: A unified network will offer more direct routes and greater operational flexibility, minimizing disruptions that can affect product and service delivery.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where railcars are handed off, the merger will shorten transit times by several days-allowing faster delivery, lower inventory investment, and reinvestment into our business and workforce.
- Increased Investment: The new transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology, and equipment-strengthening capacity, safety, and service quality. Such investment at the railroad level directly drives reinvestment and innovation among its suppliers.

We recognize that thorough regulatory review is a critical part of this process and encourage decision-makers to consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us, as well as the national economy.

Thank you for considering our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation, and partnership that this merger will bring.

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

Accommodations Plus International (API) appreciates the opportunity to express support for the proposed merger of Norfolk Southern and Union Pacific. We recognize the potential of this merger to enhance the efficiency, safety, and resilience of the nation's rail network.

API provides technology-enabled crew lodging management for major rail carriers, including Norfolk Southern. As a business partner of Norfolk Southern, we anticipate that the proposed merger will lead to expanded reach, improved service reliability and reduced transit times, which will benefit rail customers and the economy as a whole. We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider these significant benefits during its review.

API supports Norfolk Southern's commitment to a thoughtful, well-managed merger that prioritizes employee welfare, operational continuity, and the long-term public interest in a strong, connected freight network. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

Re: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs:

As a small business committed to environmental sustainability with offices in North Carolina, Minnesota, and California, we recognize that reliable and efficient rail service is vital to both our local economies and our shared environmental goals. The proposed Union Pacific–Norfolk Southern merger represents an opportunity to strengthen our nation's transportation network while supporting cleaner, more sustainable freight and passenger movement. We have worked with Union Pacific Railroad as a contractor since 1997. We see the benefits of a coast-to-coast network.

The merger of Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern will improve service efficiency, reduce congestion, and expand regional and national market access. Increased rail capacity will improve energy efficiency, reduce costs, decrease prices, and enhance rail service quality. The merged companies' investment in rail infrastructure will create jobs, improve safety, and facilitate innovation in design and engineering.

On behalf of our business and others working toward sustainable solutions, we respectfully encourage the Surface Transportation Board to approve this merger to realize the economic and environmental benefits of a stronger, more connected, and more sustainable rail system.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, Alton Materials strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At Alton Materials, we provide rail car dismantling, rail car components and railroad recycling, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact delivery of our products and services.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster. Moreover, reduced transit times will lower our investment in inventory, allowing us to further invest in our business and employees.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a long-standing supplier to Union Pacific Railroad, AlumiTank, Inc. proudly supports the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern.

At AlumiTank, we manufacture and install aluminum fuel tanks and mounting systems for railcars, specializing in the replacement, refurbishment, and servicing of existing tank assemblies across Union Pacific's fleet. Our products are designed to meet the demanding performance, safety, and longevity standards of North America's freight rail industry, and our relationship with Union Pacific has allowed us to consistently deliver solutions that help sustain safe and reliable operations.

We believe this merger will create significant advantages for suppliers, customers, and the broader transportation network:

- Enhanced Operational Efficiency: By connecting two leading rail networks, the combined organization will reduce transit times, improve routing flexibility, and streamline the movement of goods across regions—resulting in faster delivery of critical rail components like ours.
- Stronger Supply Chain Collaboration: A unified system will simplify logistics coordination and create a more predictable operating environment for suppliers, allowing us to plan production and fulfillment more effectively.
- Increased Investment in Infrastructure: The merger's scale will strengthen both companies' ability to invest in technology, sustainability, and safety—areas where AlumiTank continues to innovate in parallel.
- Long-Term Stability for U.S. Manufacturing: A stronger, more efficient rail system directly supports domestic manufacturing and transportation partners like AlumiTank, contributing to job creation and industrial growth across the nation.

Union Pacific has consistently demonstrated integrity, reliability, and a commitment to continuous improvement. We have full confidence that this merger will further enhance their ability to provide high-quality, dependable rail service, ensuring continued success for the thousands of suppliers and partners who support their operations.

We respectfully urge the Surface Transportation Board to give full and favorable consideration to this merger and the positive impact it will bring to the rail industry and its supplier network.

AMERICAN WHOLESALE LIGHTING

To:
The Honorable Patrick J. Fuchs, Chairman
Surface Transportation Board
395 E Street SW
Washington, DC 20423

Re: Endorsement of the Proposed Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

American Wholesale Lighting is honored to support Union Pacific Railroad's proposed merger with Norfolk Southern. As a long-standing partner and supplier, we have seen firsthand the company's commitment to operational excellence, safety, and innovation. We believe this merger represents a strategic advancement for the nation's freight rail network and for the suppliers that help sustain it.

Our company provides comprehensive lighting, energy, and electrical solutions to transportation and industrial facilities nationwide, including many key Union Pacific properties. The efficiencies and scale created by a combined Union Pacific–Norfolk Southern network will enhance the reliability and reach of the rail system, directly benefiting the suppliers and contractors who serve it.

This merger stands to:

Strengthen supply chain reliability by reducing interchange points and improving transit continuity;

Enable faster delivery of critical materials and services supporting rail operations;

Encourage broader infrastructure investment, especially in sustainability and modernization; and Create new opportunities for small and mid-sized businesses that serve the freight transportation sector.

Union Pacific's collaborative culture has always extended to its partners, and we expect this merger to multiply that effect, fostering growth and innovation throughout the supplier community.

We respectfully urge the Surface Transportation Board to give favorable consideration to this merger. It promises measurable gains in safety, service quality, and national freight efficiency—benefits that ripple well beyond the railroad industry itself.

Thank you for your attention to this important matter and for your continued stewardship of our nation's transportation system.

Respectfully,
Mark Jensen

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud partner of both Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern, Anderzack-Pitzen Construction Inc. strongly supports the proposed merger between these two historic and innovative railroads.

At Anderzack-Pitzen Construction, we specialize in civil and bridge construction, proudly contributing to the infrastructure that keeps America's rail network strong and reliable. Over the years, we have had the privilege of working alongside Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern as trusted collaborators, ensuring the safe and efficient movement of goods across our nation.

From our perspective as a long-standing contractor, we believe this merger will bring meaningful benefits not only to the rail industry but also to the many companies—like ours—that serve and support it:

- Shared Growth and Partnership: Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern have consistently demonstrated a commitment to working closely with their contractors and partners. We value the trust they've placed in our team and are confident this merger will open even greater opportunities for collaboration and shared success.
- Stronger Network, Better Service: The combination of these two rail systems will create a more seamless and resilient national network. This will enable us, as a construction partner, to better plan, coordinate, and deliver projects that support rail operations across a larger footprint.
- Enhanced Efficiency and Reliability: A unified system will reduce logistical bottlenecks, improving project scheduling and delivery timelines for infrastructure work. This directly benefits our crews, our clients, and the communities we serve.

- Investment in the Future: With expanded reach and resources, the merged company will be better positioned to invest in long-term infrastructure, technology, and safety initiatives—investments that align with our mission to build lasting, high-quality rail structures that stand the test of time.

We fully understand the importance of regulatory review and trust that the Surface Transportation Board will recognize the positive, tangible benefits this merger will bring to the broader industry and economy. As a contractor that has worked side by side with both railroads, we believe this merger represents a strategic and forward-looking step that will strengthen America's transportation foundation for decades to come.

Thank you for your consideration. We look forward to continuing our partnership with Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern as they enter this new and exciting chapter together.

Re: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

On behalf of Aon, a leading global professional services firm and insurance broker, we are writing to express our support for the proposed merger between the Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Railroads.

This will be a a pivotal step towards modernizing and enhancing railway safety across America. The melding of the operations and infrastructure of these two industry leaders will present an invaluable opportunity to assess the current landscape of railway safety on a national scale, allowing stakeholders to identify areas for improvement and develop unified standards that will ensure a safe and secure environment for railway workers and the public.

This will open avenues for significant investment in cutting-edge safety technologies, and foster innovation and development of safer transportation solutions and protocols. This strategic alignment would combine the operational strengths of both companies and advance standardized safety procedures across a larger network, reducing the potential for inconsistencies that might compromise safety. Both companies' railway workers would be guided by uniform safety standards and protocols, and the job security guarantees under the merger will lead to a more stable and experienced workforce – an element that is essential to maintaining the highest standards of safety.-

I believe this will create an industry that is better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology, equipment, and workforce in ways that will improve the operation and safety of our nation's railways to the ultimate benefit of railway workers, consumers and the public at large.

As a proud supplier to Norfolk Southern, Aptonet Inc strongly supports the proposed merger with Union Pacific.

At Aptonet Inc, we provide Information Technology staffing and consulting services that help Norfolk Southern maintain and enhance its critical infrastructure systems, ensuring operational reliability and innovation across its network.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Norfolk Southern's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Norfolk Southern fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient, and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's technology and infrastructure demands expand as a result of the merger.
- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact delivery of our services.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology, and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity, and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business and workforce.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation, and partnership that this merger will bring.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, Arc Rite Welding and Fabrication strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At Arc Rite, we provide Steel, Bridges, and Bridge parts, along with steel maintenance, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.
Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact delivery of our products and services.
Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster. Moreover, reduced transit times will lower our investment in inventory, allowing us to further invest in our business and employees.
Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

I am writing on behalf of Arch Rail Group LLC, a proud supplier to Union Pacific. We strongly support the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern, as we believe it will bring substantial benefits to your operation, your partners, and the broader freight rail industry.

At Arch Rail Group LLC, we provide structural and railroad engineering services, which are vital to ensuring the safe, efficient, and reliable movement of freight across the country.

We are confident that this merger will positively impact suppliers like us through:

Business Growth: A thriving environment that meets Union Pacific's needs will allow us to expand our offerings and grow alongside your company's increased demand.
Expanded Reach: Access to a broader geographic network will enable us to serve existing customers better and reach new markets.
Enhanced Service Reliability: A larger, integrated network will offer more direct routes and operational flexibility, reducing service disruptions and ensuring timely delivery.
Reduced Transit Times: Eliminating interchanges will significantly cut transit times, allowing us to deliver products faster and reduce inventory costs—resources we can reinvest in our business and workforce.
Increased Investment: The enhanced infrastructure and operational capabilities resulting from the merger will promote further investment in technology, safety, and capacity—benefiting both your operations and our partnership.

We appreciate the importance of a thorough regulatory review and encourage authorities to consider the positive economic and operational impacts of this merger.

Thank you for considering our perspective. We look forward to continued growth, innovation, and collaboration stemming from this exciting opportunity.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a strategic partner of Union Pacific, Arista Networks is writing to express our strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern.

Arista Networks is a global leader in cloud networking solutions, specializing in scalable, high-performance data center and campus networking, cloud services, and digital transformation. Arista's business is driven by the growing demand for secure, agile, and automated network environments, supporting Fortune 500 companies and cloud providers worldwide. Our commitment to sustainability is reflected in energy-efficient solutions and a focus on reducing the carbon footprint of IT infrastructure. Arista's dedication to innovation and operational excellence positions us as a key player in enterprise networking, addressing the challenges of managing complex data environments and ensuring security, reliability, and efficiency. We empower organizations to innovate and scale through advanced networking platforms.

Arista Networks has been a strategic partner of Union Pacific since 2014, enabling Union Pacific's robust cybersecurity, compliance, and network modernization initiatives. Our collaboration has included several IT transformation programs, where Arista's cloud-grade networking solutions have supported Union Pacific's pursuit of operational excellence, business continuity, and customer experience.

As a strategic partner, Arista Networks understands the importance of rail to our national infrastructure and the critical role of streamlined IT at the heart of maintaining commerce. We also serve many customers and suppliers of Union Pacific, so we understand firsthand how investments in technology modernization represent a commitment to safety, growth, and innovation.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific strategic partners like us, including:

- Improved Supply Chain Connectivity: The combined network will offer more transparent supply chain visibility, enabling advanced IT solutions to better serve supply chain needs. Union Pacific's modern network environment makes them a true plug-and-play partner with secure, efficient IT infrastructure.
- Enhanced Customer Experience: The merger will enable rapid deployment of capabilities to a broader set of customers in a secure and connected manner.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in security, infrastructure, technology, and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity, and safety.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger (STB Docket FD 36873)

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Norfolk Southern, Avasant, strongly supports the proposed merger with Union Pacific.

At Avasant, we provide Norfolk Southern with IT Consulting services including IT & Digital Transformation, Strategic Sourcing / Vendor Management, Benchmarking & Cost Optimization, and Business Process / Digital Process Transformation which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Norfolk Southern's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Norfolk Southern fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact delivery of our products and services.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster. Moreover, reduced transit times will lower our investment in inventory, allowing us to further invest in our business and employees.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, BELFOR Environmental strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

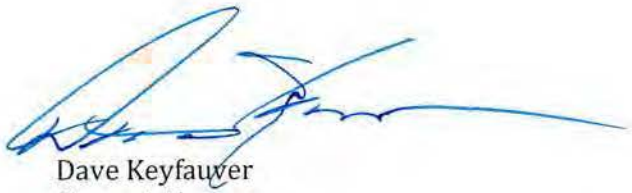
At BELFOR Environmental, we provide hazardous materials remediation, emergency response, site restoration, and environmental consulting services that are essential to the safe and efficient operation of freight rail service across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

• Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient, and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's operational footprint and supply demands expand as a result of the merger.

• Expanded Reach: A broader, integrated rail network will enable us to provide services to a wider range of facilities and communities, enhancing our ability to support critical rail infrastructure.

• Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, reducing service interruptions that can affect delivery of our environmental response and remediation capabilities.



• Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating certain interchanges, the combination will remove delays that impact timely deployment of our personnel and equipment, ultimately improving response times and customer outcomes.

• Increased Investment: A unified, transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology, and safety—directly benefiting suppliers like BELFOR Environmental that share a commitment to operational excellence and public safety.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the Board to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Subject: Letter of Support for the Proposed Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

On behalf of Build A Box, I am writing to express our strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern. For more than 12 years, Build A Box has had the privilege of partnering with Union Pacific Railroad to design and manufacture custom shipping container offices across their entire rail network. Through this collaboration, we have supported the development of critical on-site infrastructure that helps Union Pacific's teams operate efficiently and safely throughout their system.

We believe this proposed merger will create significant opportunities and benefits — not only for Union Pacific and its partners, but for the rail industry and broader economy. Key advantages we anticipate include:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific has fostered an environment where partners like us can grow while delivering safe, efficient, and cost-effective solutions. We expect that the expanded scale of the merged network will create new opportunities for collaboration and innovation.
- Expanded Reach: A broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve existing customers and reach new ones, supporting the continued development of rail facilities and infrastructure across the country.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and greater operational flexibility, reduce service interruptions and allow us to deliver our products and services more effectively.
- Reduced Transit Times: Eliminating interchange points will shorten transit times, enabling faster delivery to customers and reducing inventory costs — savings we can reinvest into our workforce and future projects.
- Increased Investment: A stronger, transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology, and capacity. Increased investment from the railroad directly translates into new opportunities for suppliers and partners like Build A Box.

We understand that regulatory review is a critical part of this process, and we respectfully encourage the Surface Transportation Board to consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers, industry partners, and the communities we serve. Thank you for the opportunity to share our perspective. We look forward to continuing our partnership with Union Pacific and contributing to the growth, innovation, and success that this merger promises to bring.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, Builders Paving L.L.C. strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern Railroad.
At Builders Paving L.L.C., we provide Concrete and Asphalt Paving Services, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight operations across the country.
We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact delivery of our products and services.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster. Moreover, reduced transit times will lower our investment in inventory, allowing us to further invest in our business and employees.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.
Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a strategic partner of Union Pacific, Capgemini is writing to express its strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern.

Capgemini is a global business and technology transformation partner, helping organizations accelerate their dual transition to a digital and sustainable world. With a strong heritage of more than 55 years, Capgemini is trusted by its clients to unlock the value of technology to address the entire breadth of their business needs. The company is a responsible and diverse group of 349,400 team members in more than 50 countries, delivering end-to-end services and solutions leveraging strengths from strategy and design to engineering.

With Union Pacific, Capgemini is engaged as a strategic implementation partner, delivering on the next chapters of back-office modernization in the SAP cloud suite focused on finance and supply. This is a digital transformation focused on automating financial processes, streamlining supply planning and operations, and bringing next-generation supply chain visibility to the warehouses and material supplies used to service Union Pacific Railroad. We understand the importance of rail to our national infrastructure and the global markets we serve. With our broad view of both US and global commerce, we understand firsthand how investments in technology modernization represent commitment to stability, growth, and innovation.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific strategic partners like us, including:

- Improved Supply Chain connectivity: The combined network will offer more transparent supply chain visibility, thus enabling services like ours to better enable supply chain planning and decision-support capabilities. As a supplier of several UP customers and vendors, this will act to multiply technology-enabled business practices. The modern environment Union Pacific operates with today makes them a true plug-and-play supply chain partner.
- Enhanced Customer Experience: The combined network will enable rapid deployment of capabilities to a broader set of customers. Rather than a siloed technology experience for customers, they will benefit from unified solutions, benefitting rail as a competitive mode
- Increased investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology, and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity, and safety.

- Innovation: Sheer scale of operations, financials, supply, human resources, and emerging tech will provide a larger and faster return on innovation. Solution deployment value will be multiplied.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on businesses like ours and the broader economy. We also want to acknowledge the scale and precision that Capgemini has witnessed while working with Union Pacific during our long-term engagements. We've seen direct precision execution of large scale, highly-impactful technology transitions – one in a surgical, and methodical way, with emphasis on business continuity and customer experience with unparalleled standards.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued partnership and enhanced service that this merger will bring.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a longstanding and trusted engineering and technology partner to Union Pacific, Casne Engineering fully supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

Casne's mission is to deliver the integrated systems and engineering solutions that keep freight rail operations safe, efficient, and future-ready. We see this merger as a strategic step forward for the rail industry—one that promises meaningful benefits for Union Pacific's supplier ecosystem and for companies like ours.

In particular, we expect the merger to:

- Fuel Sustainable Growth: Union Pacific has long fostered a collaborative environment that encourages suppliers to innovate and scale. We anticipate that the merger will expand opportunities for Casne to grow alongside a more robust and integrated rail network.

- Broaden Market Access: A wider geographic footprint will enhance our ability to support customers across the country and open new avenues for delivering our specialized services and solutions.

- Enhance Service Continuity: A unified network will increase operational flexibility and reduce disruptions — key to maintaining the consistent, high-quality service our clients expect.

- Accelerate Delivery Cycles: Streamlining rail operations will trim days off transit times. That means faster delivery of equipment, lower working capital requirements, and more capacity for reinvestment into innovation and workforce development.

- Strengthen Infrastructure Investment: A merged entity will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure and technology that align with our own commitment to safety, reliability, and technical excellence.

We recognize the importance of rigorous regulatory oversight and encourage decision-makers to consider the long-term advantages this merger offers to the supply chain, the transportation sector, and the broader economy.

Thank you for considering Casne Engineering's perspective. We look forward to the continued innovation, growth, and collaboration that this merger represents.

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

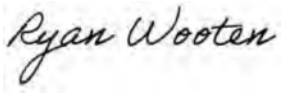
As the CEO of Cattron, a long-standing supplier and technology partner to Norfolk Southern, I am writing to express our strong support for the proposed merger with Union Pacific.

Cattron designs and manufactures advanced industrial and rail control solutions that support safe and efficient operations across the freight rail industry. Our technology plays a critical role in enhancing reliability, safety, and communication throughout the network.

We believe the proposed merger will bring significant benefits to suppliers, customers, and the broader U.S. economy, including:

Business Growth: Norfolk Southern fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient, and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.

Expanded Reach: A broader geographic footprint will allow us to serve our customers better and reach new markets as the combined network opens new opportunities for collaboration.



Improved Service Reliability: The integrated network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, reducing service interruptions that can impact the delivery of our products and services.

Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times—enabling faster deliveries and allowing us to lower inventory levels while reinvesting in our people and operations.

Increased Investment: A unified transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology, and equipment—further improving service quality, capacity, and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates directly into greater investment in our own business.

We appreciate the careful review this process requires and encourage the Board to consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like Cattron and on the overall strength of the U.S. freight rail network.

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a longtime economic development partner of Union Pacific, CBRE is writing to express our strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern. We rely on Union Pacific to provide efficient, reliable, and cost-effective rail service to market our real estate for industrial development. We believe that the proposed merger will enhance competition and yield significant benefits for economic development partners like us.

I represent a five thousand acre industrial and manufacturing development, Victory Logistics District, in northwestern Nevada that abuts the UP mainline. Victory Logistics District recently received approval to bring rail service into industrial development.

We view the merger as most favorable to all parties concerned. This will create a strategic economic surge between coastal markets. The merger will yield significant economic advantages by providing direct rail service to enable cost competitive efficiencies to the site at Victory Logistics District.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on businesses like ours and the broader economy.

At Cenozoic, we provide program-level environmental management services systemwide, which are essential to protect human health and the environment and to ensure smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.

As a small business Union Pacific has provided Cenozoic with opportunities that otherwise might not have been possible. We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners as well as provide additional environmental stewardship, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers, reach new ones, and grow our business via investing in additional individual resources.
- Improved Services: The combined network will offer a comprehensive approach to environmental initiatives throughout all routes. This will increase productivity and allow complete best of industry standards and proactive environmental principles to reach across the entire rail system.
- Reduced Environmental Footprint: This merger will systematically increase the level of environmental stewardship by expanding Union Pacific's best in class environmental programs. Beyond providing goods to more customers, faster, a combined railroad can more comprehensively emphasize environmentally sound and safe practices across the United States.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in environmental stewardship, infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business, allowing us to further invest in our dedicated human resources.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on the environment and suppliers like us.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger (STB Docket FD 36873)

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a trusted supplier to both Norfolk Southern and Union Pacific, CG Power & Industrial Solutions strongly supports the proposed merger of these two leading railroads.

At CG Power, we are dedicated to delivering critical locomotive rotating electrical equipment—including new and remanufactured traction motors, alternators, propulsion systems, and related components—that are essential to ensuring the safe, reliable, and efficient operation of freight rail across North America.

We recognize the importance of this merger not only to the rail industry but also to suppliers like us. The combined network and operational synergies will strengthen opportunities for innovation, service reliability, and long-term collaboration with our valued railroad partners.

In particular, CG Power sees significant benefits in the following areas:

• Continued Commitment During Transition: CG Power is fully committed to supporting both Norfolk Southern and Union Pacific as trusted partners throughout this transition period. We will maintain uninterrupted supply, service responsiveness, and technical support to ensure seamless operations.

• Business Growth & Partnership Expansion: The merger is expected to increase demand for safe, efficient, and cost-effective solutions. As a supplier of mission-critical equipment, CG anticipates growth alongside our partners, enabling us to invest further in capacity, technology, and U.S.-based support infrastructure.

• Expanded Reach & Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will create more direct routes and reduce service disruptions, supporting both timely product deliveries and enhanced aftermarket support.

• Reduced Transit Times & Supply Chain Efficiency: Faster cycle times will allow us to reduce inventory burdens, reinvest in our workforce, and scale our North American operations to better serve the railroads.

• Increased Investment & Innovation: With the strength of a transcontinental railroad, NS and UP will be positioned to invest in infrastructure and advanced technologies. CG Power shares this vision and is prepared to align investments that enhance reliability, sustainability, and long-term growth.

We strongly believe this merger will create a more resilient rail network that benefits shippers, suppliers, employees, and the broader U.S. economy. Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, CGM Intermodal Shippers Inc strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At CGM Intermodal, we provide drayage services for Union Pacific's intermodal product, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country. The American freight rail network is the backbone of our operations, enabling us to move products sustainably and efficiently while supporting jobs and economic growth.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact supply schedules.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

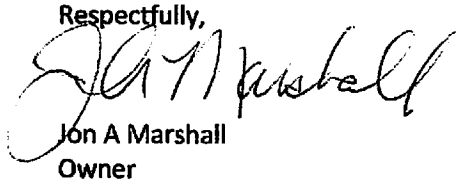
Dear Chairman Fuchs:

We take considerable pride in being a supplier to Union Pacific Railroad. Choctaw Construction Services, LLC is an American Indian and Veteran owned business that strongly supports the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern.

Our mission at Choctaw Construction Services, LLC is to make our customer's capital more efficient. We accomplish this by providing maintenance of way services and new construction services for Union Pacific as well as other Class 1 Railroads. These services are vital to the safe and efficient movement of goods across freight rail in the US, as well as for the import and export of goods across our borders with Mexico and Canada.

Union Pacific Railroad, which was chartered and partially funded by the US government under Abraham Lincoln's administration, now has the potential to fulfill the vision that Abraham Lincoln had for a transcontinental railroad, but now under a much more efficient single-corporate structure.



We strongly believe that very considerable benefits will accrue to the customers, suppliers and communities in which Union Pacific operates as a consequence of this proposed merger.

- Environmental: The carbon footprint of the freight railroads as measured in freight ton-miles per unit of Greenhouse Gas Emission is significantly lower than that of the trucking industry. Union Pacific has continuously focused on improving their carbon footprint and has encouraged its suppliers to focus not only on their Greenhouse Gas Emissions, but also to develop and implement formal programs to minimize spills of hydrocarbons and hazardous materials.
- Safety: The safe operation of the railroad is paramount to Union Pacific. As we work for a host of Class 1 railroads, we are able to confidently say that Union Pacific's focus on safety is unparalleled in the industry. Premier among their safety concerns is the protection of the people working on the railroad as well as those within the communities in which they operate.

- Business Growth Opportunities: Union Pacific is a most demanding customer, particularly with respect to safety, environmental performance and operating efficiency. We are a much better company today as a consequence of Union Pacific's very high standards for performance. We are highly confident that our business will grow upon completion of this merger, and as a consequence, we will be able to offer expanded professional growth opportunities for our workforce which is comprised of over 80 % racial and ethnic minorities. Attendant to this growth will be opportunities to expand geographically as well as develop new lines of business to support the growing needs of Union Pacific's expanded service area.
- Improved Customer Service: Currently, customers moving goods across multiple railroad lines are required to deal with multiple service providers with disparate freight rates and delivery schedules. By combining the networks of Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern, customers will have the ability to deal with a sole supplier which offers quicker and more direct rail routes, devoid of separately owned switching yards, which will translate to more cost-effective freight solutions for the customer.
- Capital Efficiency: Duplicative costs across the two companies will be eliminated with this merger, thus creating significant cost synergies. These cost savings, coupled with the improved service reliability this merger will create across the entire rail network, will translate to more cost effective and timely movement of customer's goods. In addition, these cost savings will free up capital be invested in developing technologies and infrastructure that will further improve safety, service reliability and customer service.
- Strategic Importance: President Eisenhower's military experience in WWI and WW II was the primary reason for the creation of the Interstate Highway system. Eisenhower understood the importance of being able to move troops and combat equipment quickly across the continent in the event of a two-front war. It should not be lost upon the regulator's consideration the considerable value this merger could have in time of war. When other methods of transport are compromised, the ability of the federal government to coordinate with a single entity the efficient movement by rail of people and critical equipment essential to our national security will be invaluable.

We recognize the importance of the regulatory review that you are undertaking with respect to this merger and hope that you will give due consideration to the very positive benefits that will accrue to the customers, the suppliers, the communities in which Union Pacific will operate, and to the Nation.

Subject: Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Proposed Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

CIT Rail is a leading railcar and locomotive leasing company that proudly serves the North American rail industry. With over $9 billion in rail assets owned, CIT Rail supports the industry with equipment that provides rail capacity to the transportation network. Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern are two of our highly valued customers.

CIT Rail views a modern rail backbone that will streamline interline transfers, standardize operating practices, and enable better coordination of capacity across the North American rail network as good for the economic and employment engine of the United States.

We are supportive of business transactions that increase operational flexibility, help reduce service interruptions that impact rail network reliability and enhance overall competition. Effectively addressing network reliability should allow for modal growth that will bolster American investments in new rail capacity benefiting shippers, the public, and suppliers like CIT Rail.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. Please let me know if you have any additional questions or concerns.

Subject: Perspective on Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a supplier to Union Pacific, Coalesce Automation, Inc. ("Coalesce") respectfully offers our perspective on the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern. At Coalesce, we provide data transformation and governance solutions, which play a role in supporting the safe and efficient operation of freight rail service across the country.

We recognize that the Surface Transportation Board's review will rightly focus on protecting competition, ensuring reliable service, and safeguarding the broader public interest. With those priorities in mind, we believe the proposed merger could create meaningful benefits for suppliers, shippers, and the national economy alike, including:

- Improved Network Efficiency: A unified system could reduce duplicative handoffs, lowering transit times and improving service reliability for businesses that depend on rail.

- Investment in Infrastructure and Technology: A stronger, transcontinental railroad may be better positioned to make long-term investments in capacity, safety, and sustainability.

- Economic Growth: A more efficient and competitive freight network can support domestic supply chains, job creation, and environmental benefits through reduced emissions.

- Supplier Opportunities: As the combined company invests in equipment, infrastructure, and innovation, suppliers like us will be able to contribute more effectively, meeting higher standards of safety, quality, and efficiency.

We understand there are important questions to be addressed in this process, and we appreciate the careful review the Board is undertaking. From our vantage point, the merger offers the potential to strengthen the nation's freight rail system in ways that benefit not only railroads and their suppliers, but also customers, communities, and the economy as a whole.

Thank you for considering our perspective as part of your deliberations.

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud vendor to Union Pacific, Cobb, Fendley & Associates Inc. (CobbFendley) strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At CobbFendley, we provide professional services for infrastructure projects, including civil engineering, subsurface utility engineering (SUE), geospatial and land surveying, and utility coordination. These services are essential to the safe and smooth improvement of the rail system across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's vendors, partners, and Americans in general including:

- Business Growth Opportunities: Union Pacific has long supported a collaborative environment where vendors can thrive while delivering safe, efficient, and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that the merger will drive increased demand for engineering services, positioning CobbFendley for continued growth as infrastructure needs increase.
- Expanded Geographic Reach: The merger will create a more extensive and integrated rail network, allowing CobbFendley to support Union Pacific in enhancing safety, reliability, and efficiency across a broader portion of the national rail system, including states where we don't currently provide services.
- Enhanced Service Reliability: A unified network will streamline operations and improve route flexibility and reduce service disruptions for clients/customers. This reliability supports better planning and execution of engineering projects tied to rail infrastructure.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges and handoffs between carriers, the combined railroad will shorten transit times by several days. This efficiency benefits, supply chains and supports strong economies that drive infrastructure solutions.
- Increased Infrastructure Investment: A transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology, and equipment. These investments will improve service quality, capacity, and safety. This will also translate into increased opportunities for vendors like CobbFendley to support those initiatives through professional engineering services.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, Colliers strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At Colliers, we provide real estate management services, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a longtime, economic development partner of Union Pacific, Colliers is writing to express our strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern. We rely on Union Pacific to provide efficient, reliable, and cost-effective rail service to market our real estate for industrial development.

We believe that the proposed merger will enhance competition and yield significant benefits for economic development partners like us, including:

Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and greater flexibility, minimizing the risk of service disruptions.
Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, allowing rail to be an even more competitive solution vs other transportation alternatives.
Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology, and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity, and safety.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on businesses like ours and the broader economy.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a longtime customer of Union Pacific, Colliers | Nebraska is writing to express our strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern.

Our company depends on efficient, reliable, and cost-effective rail service to meet the needs of consumers and ensure the safe, timely delivery of our products across the country. At Colliers Nebraska, we work with a variety of users, small and larger, that transport goods that are vital to the national economy. The American freight rail network is a critical component of our supply chain, allowing us to move large volumes efficiently and sustainably. We understand the importance of rail to our employees, our products, and our national economy. We also understand firsthand how these rail networks need new investments, and new commitments for growth and innovation, so that Colliers Nebraska has a bright future.

We believe that the proposed merger will enhance competition and yield significant benefits for Union Pacific partners like us, including:

Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and greater flexibility, minimizing the risk of service disruptions.

Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more consumers, faster.

Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology, and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity, and safety.

Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on businesses like ours and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued partnership and enhanced service that this merger will bring.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a long-term strategic partner of Union Pacific, Concentrix is writing to express our strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern.

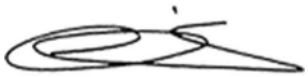
Concentrix is a trusted provider of customer engagement solutions, serving over 2,000 clients across various sectors, including Fortune Global 500 brands. The company is known for its ability to design, build, and run integrated solutions at scale, effectively addressing the business challenges of its clients. Concentrix's mission is to empower brands by being human-centered, tech-powered, and intelligence-fueled, ensuring that it meets the needs of its clients efficiently and effectively.

In the multi-year strategic partnership with Union Pacific, Concentrix has witnessed several innovative technology programs come to fruition, including most notably the NetControl transportation management system (TMS) launched in 2024. This represented a milestone achievement in modernization, making Union Pacific the first class I railroad to fully modernize their operations systems (Positive Train Control (PTC), NetControl (TMS), and Computer-Aided Dispatching (CADx)). We have also partnered with Union Pacific on their Invoice Management, Terminal Command Center, and Quality Assurance Center of Excellence programs to name recent achievements. In every program and deployment, it has been our experience that Union Pacific approaches technology with an innovative mindset, pursuing the art of what is possible while maintaining high standards of business continuity and customer experience excellence.

As a national and global services provider, we understand the importance of rail to our national critical infrastructure and the broader impact to the global markets we serve. We also have the pleasure of serving many customers and suppliers of Union Pacific, so we understand firsthand how investments in technology modernization represent commitment to stability, growth and innovation.

We expect that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific strategic partners like us, including:

- Improved Supply Chain Connectivity: The combined network will offer more transparent supply chain visibility, thus enabling solutions that partners like Concentrix develop and partner to deploy to better serve supply chain operations.



© 2025 Concentrix Corp. All Rights Reserved. Confidential and Proprietary.

- Enhanced Customer Experience: The combined network will enable rapid deployment of capabilities to a broader set of customers. Rather than a siloed technology experience for customers, they will benefit from unified solutions, benefitting rail as a competitive mode.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology, and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity, and safety.
- Innovation: The transcontinental railroad's scale of operations, financials, supply, human resources, and emerging tech can provide a larger and faster return on innovation, multiplying the value of solution deployment.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact we believe this merger will have on businesses like ours and the broader economy. We also want to acknowledge the scale and precision that Concentrix has witnessed while working with Union Pacific during our long-term engagements. We have seen direct precision execution of large scale, highly impactful technology transitions in a surgical, and methodical way, with an emphasis on business continuity and customer experience as unparalleled standards.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued partnership and enhanced service that this merger will bring.

As a strategic partner of Union Pacific, Cyderes is writing to express our support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern.

Cyderes, formed from the merger of Herjavec Group and Fishtech Group in 2022, is a global provider of cybersecurity services. The company focuses on protecting enterprises from evolving cyber threats and is recognized as a leading player in the cybersecurity market, aiming to become the industry standard for enterprises seeking assurance in managing their risks and cyber threats. Cyderes offers a full life-cycle of cybersecurity services, making it a significant player in the cybersecurity landscape.

We have been a strategic partner of Union Pacific since 2022 and continue to enable Union Pacific's enterprising cybersecurity program today.

Cyderes has partnered with Union Pacific on several security initiatives including security operations support, detection engineering, and security program benchmarking. In every interaction, it has been our experience that Union Pacific approaches technology with an innovative mindset, exploring the art of what's possible while pursuing high standards of business continuity and customer experience excellence. They do all this with an unwavering commitment to protecting their business and customers.

As a strategic partner, Cyderes understands the importance of rail to our national infrastructure and the importance of security at the heart of maintaining secure commerce. We also have the pleasure of serving many customers and suppliers of Union Pacific, so we understand firsthand how investments in technology modernization represent commitment to safety, growth and innovation.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific strategic partners like us, including:

- Improved Supply Chain Connectivity: The combined network will offer more transparent supply chain visibility, thus enabling services like ours to better serve supply chain security. As a supplier of several UP customers, this will act to multiply their own technology-enabled business security practices.
- Enhanced Customer Experience: The combined network will enable rapid deployment of capabilities to a broader set of technology environments with the intent of securing ever larger parts of the network for relied on daily by customers and suppliers.

- Increased Investment: Our hope is that increased efl ciencies from the merger would better position the transcontinental railroad to invest in security, infrastructure, technology, and equipment, ultimately improving service quality, capacity, and safety.
- Increased InvestInnovation & Eff ciency: Sheer scale of network in a combined transcontinental railroad could enable broader technological innovation, and efl ciency, improving customer and supplier experiences by advancing at scale the security frameworks Union Paciflc employs.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on businesses like ours and the broader economy. We also want to acknowledge the scale and precision that Cyderes has witnessed while working with Union Paciflc during our long-term engagements. We've seen direct precision execution of large scale, highly impactful technology transitions. Done in a highly secure and surgical way, with emphasis on business continuity and customer experience as unwavering standards.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued partnership and enhanced service that this merger will bring.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Norfolk Southern, Dan McCown & Co. Inc. strongly supports the proposed merger with Union Pacific.

At Dan McCown & Co., we provide property valuation and consulting services to the Norfolk Southern Real Estate department in a wide geographical area.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Norfolk Southern's suppliers and partners, including

- Business Growth: Norfolk Southern fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions including excess real estate disposition.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in land acquisitioning, infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Dassler Domestic Logistics Endorses UP–NS Merger as Win for U.S. Supply Chains

Louisville, KY – Dassler Domestic Logistics, a leading domestic intermodal carrier, today announced its support for the proposed merger of Union Pacific Railroad and Norfolk Southern Corporation. The transaction will create a single unified coast-to-coast rail network that streamlines freight movement by providing uninterrupted, single-line service from origin to destination. With one railroad handling cross-country shipments, Dassler anticipates faster transit times, simpler scheduling, and enhanced reliability for domestic shippers. This coast-to-coast connectivity will allow logistics providers like Dassler to coordinate moves through one integrated system, reducing handoffs and improving overall supply chain efficiency.

Gjaneto Harusha, speaking on behalf of Dassler Domestic Logistics, highlighted the benefits: "Merging these railroads into one network is a big win for domestic logistics. A single-line, coast-to-coast service means no mid-route handoffs, so containers will reach their destinations faster and with fewer complications. For Dassler and our customers, this translates to more reliable deliveries, and a smoother supply chain nationwide. We fully support the UP–NS merger because it will help us deliver even better service to American businesses."

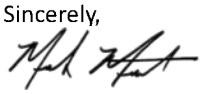
Subject: Support for Union Pacific–Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a supplier to Union Pacific, Distributed Technology Group LLC (DTG) is pleased to express strong support for its proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At DTG, we provide information technology solutions and services, which play an important role in keeping freight rail service safe, reliable, and efficient. From our perspective, this merger represents an opportunity to strengthen the industry while creating benefits for the many businesses that work alongside Union Pacific.



We expect the combined network to deliver:

- Room to grow: With Union Pacific's supply needs expanding as the network grows, we anticipate greater opportunities to scale our own operations.
- Wider reach: A broader geographic footprint will allow us to serve existing customers more effectively and introduce our services to new markets.
- More reliable service: Direct routes and added flexibility will limit disruptions that affect deliveries and operations.
- Faster transit times: Fewer interchanges mean quicker shipments, which in turn improves customer satisfaction and allows us to reinvest resources into our people and business.
- Stronger investment in the future: A larger, transcontinental railroad will have the capacity to increase investment in infrastructure, technology, and equipment—improvements that ultimately benefit everyone connected to the rail system.

We understand the importance of careful regulatory review, and we encourage the Board to consider the positive impact this merger can have on suppliers, customers, and the overall economy.

Thank you for taking our perspective into account. We look forward to continuing to grow alongside Union Pacific as it enters this next chapter.

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, E3 Environmental strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At E3 Environmental, we provide environmental remediation, emergency response services, oil spill cleanup, industrial cleaning, railcar response, tank-to-tank transfers and more, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact delivery of our products and services.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster. Moreover, reduced transit times will lower our investment in inventory, allowing us to further invest in our business and employees.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger (STB Docket FD 36873)

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

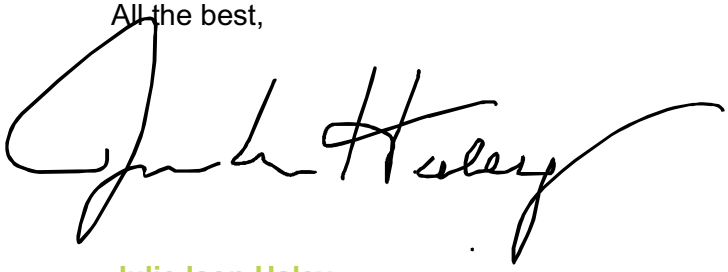
On behalf of our company, Edge Solutions LLC, and as a proud supplier to Norfolk Southern, we strongly support the proposed merger with Union Pacific.

For the past 7 years, Edge Solutions has provided hybrid cloud, networking, and security solutions to Norfolk Southern ("NS"). When NS moved its headquarters to Atlanta from Roanoke, Edge handled data migration, sourced new IT equipment, and provided integration services for their new home. Now, we are working on the data storage component of the high-speed cameras that we all hope will prevent future accidents. Naturally, this cutting-edge service is essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.



We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Norfolk Southern's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Norfolk Southern fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the combined company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
- Expanded Reach: As of now, we have no connections to the markets of Omaha, Nebraska, and we look forward to expanding our services there. Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to reach new customers in the Midwest and will result in our growth.
- Improved Service Reliability: The IT industry relies on railroad transport to ship products to our clients all over the US. The combined network will offer more direct routes and improved operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact delivery of our products and services.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster.
- Increased Investment: After the proposed merger, the transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a dedicated supplier to Union Pacific, Express Cherokee is pleased to voice our strong support for the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

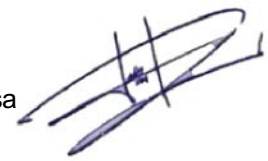
At Express Cherokee, we provide drayage services through Mexico's rail terminals that connect directly with Union Pacific's intermodal operations. These services play a vital role in ensuring freight moves safely, reliably, and efficiently across the network. The U.S. freight rail system forms the foundation of our business, enabling sustainable transport, economic growth, and job creation.

We believe this merger will deliver meaningful advantages to Union Pacific's supplier community, including:

Business Expansion: Union Pacific has consistently created opportunities for its suppliers to grow by fostering safe, cost-effective, and efficient solutions. With this merger, we expect to see increased demand that will directly contribute to the growth of our own business.

Greater Reliability: A unified system will bring more direct routing and flexibility, minimizing disruptions that can delay supply chains.

Faster Transit: Removing interchange points will shorten transit times by several days, allowing us to serve customers faster and more effectively.



Enhanced Investment: A stronger, transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to reinvest in infrastructure, equipment, and technology, raising service quality, capacity, and safety.

Broader Market Access: The combined reach of the network will extend our ability to serve current customers while opening doors to new markets.

We recognize the importance of thorough regulatory review and respectfully urge the authorities to weigh the broad benefits this merger will bring—not only to suppliers like us, but to the economy at large.

Thank you for considering our perspective. We look forward to the innovation, growth, and strengthened partnerships this merger represents.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, Fast Action Trucking Inc strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At Fast Action Trucking Inc, we provide drayage services for Union Pacific's intermodal product, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country. The American freight rail network is the backbone of our operations, enabling us to move products sustainably and efficiently while supporting jobs and economic growth.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact supply schedules.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety.
- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

Felsburg Holt & Ullevig (FHU) supports a merger between Union Pacific (UP) and Norfolk Southern, recognizing the potential benefits such a partnership could bring to the Omaha community and the broader regional economy.

Union Pacific has long been a cornerstone of Omaha's identity and prosperity. Its presence has fostered thousands of local jobs, supported infrastructure investment, and sustained economic growth across multiple sectors. A merger that enhances UP's operational efficiency and competitive strength would reinforce Omaha's standing as a national hub for freight, logistics, and innovation.

We believe that a successful merger could further stimulate economic opportunity, improve supply chain reliability, and position both companies to meet the evolving demands of modern transportation. Strengthening UP's capacity to grow and invest benefits not only the rail industry but also the communities that depend on it, including Omaha, where UP's leadership continues to play a vital civic and economic role.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a longtime partner of Union Pacific, Fischer Weiler Industrial is writing to express our strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern. We operate in the commercial real estate market and rely on Union Pacific to provide efficient, reliable, and cost-effective rail service, until they interchange with us, to meet the needs of our customers and ensure the safe, timely delivery of goods.

We believe that the proposed merger will enhance competition and yield significant benefits for partners like us, including:

- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and greater flexibility, minimizing the risk of service disruptions.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, allowing rail to be an even more competitive solution vs other transportation alternatives.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology, and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity, and safety.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on businesses like ours and the broader economy.

RE: SUPPORT FOR UNION PACIFIC AND NORFOLK SOUTHERN MERGER

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

Fleet Fuels (and our predecessor company Capital City Oil) have been a proud supplier of diesel fuel to Union Pacific (UP) since 1995. This involves 24/7/365 direct to locomotive fueling on the main line in Eastern Kansas, Oklahoma, NW Arkansas and Western Missouri. This enables UP trains to proceed safely on their route with minimal delay, usually 30 minutes or less.

UP runs a very efficient railroad. We're excited because we will get to partner with them to help them integrate added traffic, which will benefit our company. Reduced interchanges and more direct routes will reduce transit times for major customers, which will reduce inventory costs and allow added investment in their business and work force.

The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

We encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy. Thanx for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring. Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Norfolk Southern, Fugiel Railroad Supply strongly supports the proposed merger with Union Pacific.

At Fugiel Railroad Supply, we provide a variety of products and service's to both the Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Railroads which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for both Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern's suppliers and partners:

> Increased demand for suppliers: The merger will allow these company's to take advantage of what each of them does best as an individual railroad, as a supplier to both of them for over 40 years I believe this would offer more visibility to both the Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern they were running as one company.
> Business growth and Increased Investment into US Infrastructure: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment into our business to further grow with both the Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern adding jobs and supporting the US economy.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

The Honorable Patrick J. Fuchs

Subject: Support for Union Pacific – Norfolk Southern Merger (STB Docket FD 36873)

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

G&A Consulting Engineers, PLLC (G&A) has been providing professional engineering consulting services to Norfolk Southern (NS) on a continuing basis since 2013. We've assisted NS with infrastructure improvement and maintenance projects at various locations around their system, and we've witnessed firsthand the railroad's uncompromising commitment to operational safety and efficiency. The historical contributions to the growth and strength of our national transportation network by NS and its predecessor railroads are well documented, and it's been our privilege to partner with NS in preserving and continuing its strong tradition of excellence.

For G&A, the recent announcement of the intended merger between NS and Union Pacific (UP) was as intriguing as it was momentous. As you might imagine, given our history with NS, we've naturally been contemplating the future implications of this merger for both of our organizations as well as the entire transportation industry. Based on the geographical "footprints" of both systems, it isn't hard to imagine how combining them will enhance their overall operational efficiency by affording them the flexibility to create more direct routes and eliminate delays associated with interchanges. The resulting reduction in shipping times would be a "win-win" for the railroads and the various commodity markets they serve. As for G&A, this merger will undoubtedly present opportunities to expand our services across a wider geographic area, and we are excited about those prospects as well. In short, from our perspective this merger looks like a positive development for the railroads, their shippers, their customers, their suppliers, and the US economy at large. We wholeheartedly support it.

G&A appreciates the importance of conducting a thorough regulatory review for a merger of this magnitude. We trust that our perspective will be of some value to those involved in the review process, and we thank you for allowing us the opportunity to weigh in on this important matter.

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, GardaWorld Security Services supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At GardaWorld Security Services, we provide contracted security guarding services, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.
Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact delivery of our products and services.
Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster. Moreover, reduced transit times will lower our investment in inventory, allowing us to further invest in our business and employees.
Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a longtime support provider to the Union Pacific, Gardian Holdings, LLC ("Gardian") is writing to express our strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern.

Our company supports efficient, reliable, and cost-effective rail service to meet the needs of all rail customers. We work with all railroads to ensure the safe and damage free delivery of all products across the country. At Gardian, we provide cargo securement products and load planning support to all boxcar shippers. We have an excellent relationship with both UP and NS cargo securement teams. We would welcome continued support to them as one team.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits to all rail shippers including:

- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and greater flexibility, minimizing the risk of service disruptions.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster.

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, General Tool and Engineering strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At General Tool and Engineering, we provide the repair of several locomotive components such as turbocharger repair, traction motor components rebuild, and journal box overhaul, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

Business Growth: Union Pacific creates an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger. We feel that we can provide the repair services needed to maintain a growing rail fleet and keep Union Pacific's locomotives running safely and reliably.

Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business and therefore helps our local economy.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a long-standing partner to Union Pacific in freight infrastructure and corridor development, GLDPartners is writing to express our strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern. Our firm is leading the development of the US TradePort Corridor System, a transformational national infrastructure initiative designed to modernize freight movement, strengthen supply chain reliability, and catalyze regional economic growth.

Union Pacific is a key stakeholder in the development of the U.S. TradePort Corridor System, with active involvement in the I-40 and I-10 segments, as well as other important corridors, including I-5, SR99, and a growing network of feeder lines serving strategic markets nationwide. These assets form the foundation of a national system that connects the Ports of Los Angeles and Long Beach, the busiest seaport complex in the Western Hemisphere, with inland logistics hubs and industrial investment zones across the country. The TradePort Corridors are being built as a high-efficiency cargo movement system supporting next-generation industrial centers that integrate logistics infrastructure with advanced manufacturing and distribution.

We believe the proposed merger will directly strengthen this system and deliver significant benefits to economic development partners like us, including:

- Improved Service Reliability: A unified network will offer more direct routes and greater operational flexibility, reducing the risk of service disruptions across key freight corridors.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges, the merger can streamline cargo movement and remove several days from delivery schedules, enhancing competitiveness and supply chain resilience.
- Increased Investment: The combined railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology, and equipment. These investments will support the development of modern logistics platforms and improve service quality, capacity, and safety.

The TradePort Corridor initiative is designed to address systemic challenges in freight movement and industrial development. It is being developed as a private-public venture to support national supply chain reliability, reduce costs for shippers, and enable the integration of modern logistics infrastructure. A stronger and more integrated rail network, made possible by this merger, will amplify these benefits and contribute to broader commercial and public policy objectives.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on infrastructure development, freight efficiency, and industrial competitiveness. Thank you for your consideration.

Subject: Support for the Union Pacific–Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

On behalf of Grace Railroad Contractors, I am writing to express our strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern.

For more than 30 years, Grace Railroad Contractors has proudly supported the rail industry by providing derailment services, track construction services, and heavy equipment services that are essential to keeping freight railroads operating safely and efficiently. Through our longstanding relationship with Union Pacific, we have witnessed their commitment to safety, reliability, and strong partnerships with suppliers and contractors. We believe this merger will generate important benefits not only for our company, but for the entire rail supply chain and U.S. economy.

We see the following advantages from this combination:

Opportunities for Growth: Union Pacific has always valued the role of its partners, creating room for companies like ours to expand alongside its network. With the added scale of Norfolk Southern, we anticipate greater demand for our services and new opportunities to contribute to the railroad's success.

Access to New Markets: A larger, unified rail system will extend our reach into new territories, enabling us to deliver derailment support, track construction, and equipment services to regions we could not easily access before.

Greater Network Stability: The combined system will provide more routing options, reduce congestion, and minimize service disruptions that often ripple through supply chains and affect contractors like us.

Enhanced Efficiency: The elimination of handoffs between carriers will streamline freight movement and cut several days off transit times. This efficiency allows suppliers and contractors to work more effectively, reduce idle time, and better align operations with customer needs.

Long-Term Investment: A coast-to-coast network will be better positioned to reinvest in infrastructure, safety programs, and technology. These commitments will drive stronger, sustained demand for contracting services in derailment response, track building, and heavy equipment operations.

We understand and respect the importance of thorough regulatory review, and we encourage the Board to carefully consider the significant positive impacts this merger will deliver to contractors, suppliers, shippers, and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation, and partnership that this merger will bring.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

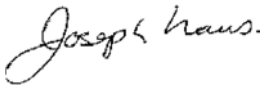
As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, TRX, Inc. and its affiliates strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At TRX, Inc., we provide drayage services for Union Pacific's intermodal product via Norfolk Southern and/or CSX terminals, which is essential to the safe and smooth transportation of freight across the country. The American freight rail network is the backbone of our operations, enabling us to move products sustainably and efficiently while supporting jobs and economic growth.



We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact supply schedules.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety.
- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, GyanSys strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.
At GyanSys, we deliver end to end digital transformation – from advisory and implementation to 24/7 managed services which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.
We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.

Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As the President and CEO of Hal Hays Construction, Inc. (HHCI), I am proud to share our strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific Railroad and Norfolk Southern.

HHCI has partnered with Union Pacific for many years as an as-needed heavy civil and rail construction contractor. We provide specialized services including new construction, maintenance, and complex special projects that help keep the railroad's network reliable and safe. Our team has worked across multiple states on challenging rail infrastructure improvements, often responding quickly to support Union Pacific's operational needs.

Because of this close working relationship, we see the proposed merger as a significant step forward — one that will create opportunities for contractors like us and strengthen America's rail system overall. We expect:

- More Opportunity to Build and Maintain Rail Infrastructure: A larger, integrated network will mean new projects, expansions, and maintenance needs where HHCI's expertise can bring value and keep rail service safe and efficient.
- Greater Geographic Reach: The combined system would open additional service areas, allowing us to respond to critical work faster and support more rail-served communities.
- Improved Network Reliability: A unified network can reduce delays and simplify logistics for getting crews, equipment, and materials to job sites on schedule.
- Continued Investment: The merged railroad will be positioned to invest more in track, bridges, facilities, and technology — and that translates directly into more opportunities for specialized contractors and good-paying construction jobs.

We understand the importance of your thorough review, but we encourage the Board to consider how this merger will strengthen long-term rail reliability and the supplier ecosystem that supports it.

Thank you for the opportunity to share our perspective. HHCI values its long-standing relationship with Union Pacific and looks forward to supporting the combined railroad's continued growth and service to the nation.

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

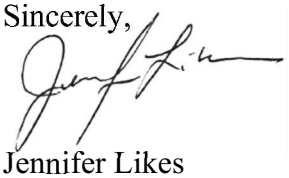
As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, Harms Oil Company strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At Harms Oil Company we provide fuel and fueling services to the railroad, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country. We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers, its shipping customers, and ultimately the consumers and citizens across our county.

Throughout our business relationship with Union Pacific, together we have been able to work towards improved and more efficient fueling operations. Union Pacific's approach to these changes involved discussions, study, and testing of the outcomes. Safety standards have been at the forefront of this work as we both consider labor, track access, and the existing workload.



Because of our work experience with Union Pacific, we believe the proposed merger has great probability of providing business growth within our own company and those that work with us. In addition, as a part of this merger and potential for growth, we believe Union Pacific will continue to conduct business with a focus on safe, efficient, and sound business practices.

As an owner of a wholesale liquid fuel and trucking company, I see firsthand how supply chain logistics are critical to both our region and our country. In the fuel industry we experience many local outages of gasoline and diesel fuel. Because of our large truck fleet and our ability to "chase fuel", consumers rarely experience the effects and are largely unaware of such outages. In addition to refined products, the use of rail to ship crude oil, ethanol, and biofuel has allowed our country to expand its energy offerings all while supporting many existing businesses and agriculture. I believe an intercontinental railway will be a critical asset in a time of need and provide logistic efficiencies that support many industries in our nation's day-to-day economy.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage your board to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation, economic efficiencies, and national security this merger has the potential to bring.

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, Haz-Mat Response, Inc. strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At Haz-Mat Response, Inc. we provide Emergency Response and Environmental Remediation, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact delivery of our products and services.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster. Moreover, reduced transit times will lower our investment in inventory, allowing us to further invest in our business and employees.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, Hilliard Enterprises, Inc. strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern. We are truthfully excited to see what additional investment this brings with Union Pacific. A larger network with more locomotives, more track mileage, more jobs, and of course more business.

At Hilliard Enterprises, Inc., we provide remanufactured locomotive prime mover components, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country. The components we supply to Union Pacific are integral to their operations as it ensures the locomotive fleet is properly maintained to allow for maximum uptime and creating a smooth flow of goods across the Union Pacific network.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger. With the merger, we see an opportunity to increase our supply of components across an additional 4,000 locomotives.
- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact delivery of our products and services. With an end to end network, it will allow for the free flow of material from coast to coast, enabling not only us, but our customers to receive their goods without additional time.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster. Moreover, reduced transit times will lower our investment in inventory, allowing us to further invest in our business and employees.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad directly translates to increased investment in our own business.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

On behalf of The Hulcher Companies, proud contractor to Union Pacific, we are writing to express our strong support for the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

For over five decades, Hulcher has partnered with the rail industry to provide critical services in emergency response, track construction, maintenance, and specialized support operations across the nation. Through these long-standing relationships, we have witnessed firsthand the commitment both Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern have made to safety, efficiency, and service excellence.

We believe this merger will deliver significant benefits to customers, communities, and railroad suppliers like Hulcher. The combined network would create a more resilient and interconnected rail system—improving transit times, reducing service coverage, and enhancing the reliability of freight movement across key regions. For contractors and partners like Hulcher, a unified network also means greater opportunities for us to support growth and infrastructure investment.

We encourage the relevant authorities to consider the potential benefits to suppliers like Hulcher as well as the economy overall. Thank you for your time and consideration. We are proud to support this important step forward in American rail transportation.

Sincerely,

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger (STB Docket FD 36873)

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Norfolk Southern, IAT International, Inc. strongly supports the proposed merger with Union Pacific.
At IAT International, Inc. we provide Steel Rail which is essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.
We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Norfolk Southern's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Norfolk Southern fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact delivery of our products and services.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster. Moreover, reduced transit times will lower our investment in inventory, allowing us to further invest in our business and employees.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.
Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a customer of Union Pacific, and current supply chain consultant for shippers and state and local agencies, Industrial Infrastructure Partners is writing to express our strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern.

The supply chain industry depends on efficient, reliable, and cost-effective rail service to meet the needs of our partners and customers and ensure the safe, timely delivery of our products across the country. At Industrial Infrastructure Enterprises in addition to we developing intermodal assets and logistics parks, we advise both shippers and state agencies on site selections and the optimization of their supply chains. This can range from advanced manufacturing to agriculture.

The American freight rail network is a critical component of our supply chain, allowing us to move large volumes efficiently and sustainably. We understand the importance of rail to our employees, our products, and our national economy. We also understand firsthand how these rail networks need new investments, and new commitments for growth and innovation, so that Industrial Infrastructure Enterprises and the partners we support have a bright future.

We believe that the proposed merger will enhance competition and yield significant benefits for customers like us, including:

- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and greater flexibility, minimizing the risk of service disruptions.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more consumers, faster.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology, and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity, and safety.
- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on businesses like ours and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued partnership and enhanced service that this merger will bring.

Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, JBX Logistics LLC , we strongly support the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At JBX Logistics LLC, we provide drayage services for Union Pacific's intermodal product via Norfolk Southern and/or CSX terminals, which is essential to the safe and smooth transportation of freight across the country. The American freight rail network is the backbone of our operations, enabling us to move products sustainably and efficiently while supporting jobs and economic growth.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
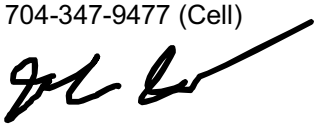
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact supply schedules. ● Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. ●



Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, JC Rail Construction strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At JC Rail Construction we provide comprehensive railroad maintenance-of-way services supporting safe, efficient, and reliable rail operations. Our team combines experienced personnel, specialized equipment, and a strong commitment to safety and quality to deliver a full range of rail infrastructure solutions, including:

- Vegetation Management:

Mechanical and chemical vegetation control along right-of-way to maintain visibility, drainage, and compliance with railroad safety standards. Services include brush cutting, tree removal, and herbicide application.

- Bridge Work and Structural Maintenance:

Inspection, repair, and rehabilitation of railroad bridges, trestles, and related structures. Capabilities include timber and steel bridge repair, decking replacement, and stabilization to extend structure lifespan and ensure operational safety.

- New Rail and Track Installation:

Complete installation of new rail lines, sidings, and track components. Services include grading, ballast placement, rail laying, surfacing, and alignment to meet Class I and short-line railroad standards.

- Heavy Hauling and Material Handling:

Transport and placement of heavy materials such as rail sections, ballast, ties, and bridge components using specialized rail and off-road equipment. Experienced in logistics coordination for remote or high-traffic rail environments.

- Culvert Repairs and Drainage Improvements:

Inspection, cleaning, and replacement of culverts and drainage structures to prevent washouts and ensure track stability. Work includes excavation, pipe installation, concrete headwalls, and erosion control measures.

- Slope Stabilization and Erosion Control:

Installation of retaining systems, geotextiles, riprap, and other stabilization techniques to prevent embankment failure and maintain right-of-way integrity.

- Cross Tie Installation and Track Component Replacement:

Removal and installation of timber, concrete, or composite ties using hydraulic tie equipment. Services include fastening system replacement and spot maintenance to extend track life and performance.

Experience:
We serve Class I, short-line, and industrial rail clients, providing both scheduled maintenance and emergency response services across a range of operating conditions.

As all are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a long term supplier of Union Pacific, Joshua Grading and Excavating Inc, strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At Joshua Grading we provide we currently are the premier contractor in California for all Mechanical, engineering and Load Adjustments. We currently support all class ones in California, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.

The proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific is an environment where suppliers have ample opportunity to grow and really embrace different avenues of business if one continues to be help to the high standard Union Pacific holds. Joshua Grading anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand with the merger.
- Reliability: Combining both railroads will create multiple route options that have not been utilized before and will allow customers to receive goods at a more reliable rate.
- Transit Times: The merger will allow both companies to push freight at a capacity America has never seen. Eliminating stops and streamlining the process from coast to coast will not only allow faster transit times but opens the door to lowering cost for the consumer and bettering off all Americans.
- Consumer Benefit: The merger ultimately will benefit the everyday American. By streamlining a process that will reduce time and cost the American people will receive the largest benefit. It will cause disruption on an industry that hasn't seen a merger like this in the last 15 years. It will make others in the industry have to drive efficiency, innovation, and production.
- Industry Evolution: The merger of two great companies, with the opportunity to serve the entire country will lead to something we have not seen. Railroads drive the American way of life and how we get our supplies. Now having a turnkey service that goes coast to coast and not having to stop or rework loads to go from one carrier to another is truly driving the industry in an upwards direction.

Regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us, the average American and the broader economy.

Subject: Expression of Support for the Union Pacific–Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

On behalf of J.W. Lindsey, Inc., a proud supplier to Union Pacific, I am pleased to share our strong support for the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At J.W. Lindsey, Inc., we provide general contracting and facility maintenance services, including asphalt and concrete work, fencing and gates, excavation and trenching, industrial maintenance, and emergency response—that are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country. The freight rail system is a cornerstone of our business, enabling us to deliver these services efficiently while sustaining jobs and contributing to local economies across California and the surrounding states.

In our view, this merger has the potential to create meaningful advantages not only for Union Pacific but also for its supplier network and customers nationwide. Among the expected benefits are:

- Stronger Opportunities for Growth: Union Pacific has always cultivated an environment where its suppliers can succeed. As their network expands through this merger, we anticipate increased opportunities to support larger and more complex projects.
- Greater Reliability: A unified network will create more direct routing and reduce points of transfer, minimizing delays that often complicate scheduling and material delivery.
- Faster Service: Shortened transit times will allow both suppliers and customers to benefit from quicker movement of goods and resources, helping us better align with the needs of the rail industry.
- Future Investment: A transcontinental system will be better equipped to make strategic investments in infrastructure, safety, and technology—improvements that strengthen the entire supply chain.
- Wider Reach: Access to a broader geographic footprint will allow suppliers like us to extend our services to new areas and broaden the support we provide to Union Pacific and its partners.

We recognize the importance of careful review in this process and trust that the Board will weigh the broader economic benefits this merger will bring to suppliers, customers, and communities alike.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. J.W. Lindsey, Inc. looks forward to the continued innovation and shared success that this merger represents.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, Kerr Contractors strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At Kerr Contractors, we provide heavy civil construction services for new and existing track and intermodal facility improvements, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact delivery of our products and services.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster. Moreover, reduced transit times will lower our investment in inventory, allowing us to further invest in our business and employees.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

Sincerely,

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a long-standing partner to Union Pacific, Kestrel Tellevate LLC (KTL) is proud to express our strong support for the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

KTL is a multidisciplinary consulting firm providing environmental, occupational health and safety, quality management, and compliance services that help industrial organizations manage complex risks. For more than 25 years, we have worked closely with Union Pacific to help ensure the safe, reliable, and compliant operation of freight rail systems nationwide.

We believe this merger represents a forward-looking opportunity with meaningful benefits for Union Pacific's supplier network and the rail industry at large, including:

- Expanded Business Opportunities: Union Pacific has long fostered a culture where suppliers can innovate and grow while delivering safe, efficient, and cost-effective solutions. This merger will extend that environment across a larger network, creating new avenues for collaboration and growth.
- Greater Investment in Safety and Sustainability: A unified transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in environmentally responsible infrastructure, cutting-edge technology, and advanced equipment—enhancing safety, service quality, and capacity. As Union Pacific invests in progress, suppliers like KTL are able to do the same.

We recognize that thoughtful regulatory review is essential to this process. We respectfully urge the relevant authorities to consider the positive economic and operational impact this merger will bring to suppliers, customers, and communities across the country.

Thank you for considering our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation, and partnership that this merger will make possible.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, K-Five Construction strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern. At K-Five Construction, we have worked with Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern. Our projects with both networks have included the construction of rail yards, expansion of intermodal facilities, and paving of properties for both railroads throughout the country. We are honored and proud to work with an industry that benefits the American economy in a safe and reliable way.

As a family owned and operated company based outside Chicago, we know firsthand the benefits a merger would bring not only to our region, but across the country. Safety, the cornerstone in our company, would be addressed with improved service reliability and increased direct routes and flexibility. Both are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country. Chicago, often called the 'railroad capital of the U.S' has a long history of growth and opportunity due to the railroads. We value this moniker; our families and local businesses view improved service and reduced transit times as an avenue to ensure our future continues as a transportation hub.

Additionally, the merger would bring significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, which are businesses and families across the country, both large and small. Our suppliers, our partners and our valued subcontractors all rely on rail not only on projects in rail, but for interstate, local roads, and airport projects throughout the country.

We understand regulatory review is an important part of this process and encourage authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation, and partnership that this merger will bring.

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a strategic partner of Union Pacific, L&T Technology Services is writing to express our strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern.

Operating in more than 25 countries, with annual revenues of over USD 1.26 billion, we design, develop, and deliver transformative products and services for a diverse clientele worldwide. From mobility and sustainability to next-gen technologies, we partner with the world's biggest and brightest brands across practically every industry. Born from the engineering excellence of Larsen & Toubro (L&T), LTTS began as a division within one of the world's largest engineering conglomerates. In 2009, recognizing the enormous potential of both engineering and technology, we became an independent entity. In the years since, LTTS has grown into a global powerhouse – blending deep engineering heritage with cutting-edge technologies to help shape industries around the world.

Today we operate as a strategic partner with Union Pacific, providing trusted technology resources to deliver the innovative solutions that are creating a technology-enabled railroad industry of tomorrow. We understand the importance of rail to our national infrastructure and the global markets we serve. With our broad view of both US and global commerce, we understand firsthand how investments in technology modernization represent commitment to stability, growth and innovation.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific strategic partners like us, including:

Enhanced Customer Experience: The combined network will enable rapid deployment of capabilities to a broader set of customers. Rather than a siloed technology experience for customers, they will benefit from unified solutions, benefitting rail as a competitive mode

Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology, and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity, and safety.

Innovation: Sheer scale of operations, financials, supply, human resources, and emerging tech will provide a larger and faster return on innovation. Solution deployment value will be multiplied.

- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact delivery of our products and services.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster. Moreover, reduced transit times will lower our investment in inventory, allowing us to further invest in our business and employees.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, L. G. Barcus and Sons, Inc. strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At L.G. Barcus and Sons, we construction bridges, culverts, shoring walls and repair existing infrastructure for both UPRR and NSRR, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact delivery of our products and services.

Re: Support for the Union Pacific Railroad and Norfolk Southern Merger

To Whom It May Concern,

On behalf of Long Road Transportation LLC, I am writing to express our strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific Railroad (UPRR) and Norfolk Southern (NS).

As a bonded and asset-based carrier specializing in drayage, warehousing, hazmat, overweight, and oversized shipments in the Seattle–Tacoma market, we rely heavily on efficient, reliable, and well-integrated rail services to support our customers. Our operations connect directly with port activity, and our success depends on a seamless supply chain where rail and trucking complement one another.

From our experience, this merger will bring several key benefits to the freight network and to shippers we collectively serve:

- Improved Network Efficiency: A combined UPRR–NS network will create a stronger, more reliable rail system that reduces congestion and helps freight move more quickly through critical gateways.

- Greater Service Reliability: Our customers demand predictability. We see this merger as an opportunity to enhance rail consistency, reduce bottlenecks, and strengthen intermodal options that directly support local drayage operations like ours.

- Enhanced Market Reach: By streamlining connections between western and eastern markets, the merger will improve access for shippers and carriers alike, enabling us to provide better service to our customers across multiple regions.

Long Road Transportation is proud to partner with Loup, and we believe this merger will enhance collaboration opportunities across the supply chain. We encourage the Surface Transportation Board to approve this merger in recognition of the positive impact it will have on service quality, supply chain efficiency, and industry growth.

Thank you for the opportunity to provide our perspective, and for your consideration of this important application.

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact delivery of our products and services.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster. Moreover, reduced transit times will lower our investment in inventory, allowing us to further invest in our business and employees.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, Macrox Transport LLC strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At Macrox Transport LLC, we provide drayage services for Union Pacific's intermodal product, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country. The American freight rail network is the backbone of our operations, enabling us to move products sustainably and efficiently while supporting jobs and economic growth.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact supply schedules.
Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster.
Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety.
Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.
Supply Chain Stability: A stronger, unified rail system will create a more predictable and resilient supply chain, benefiting industries across the nation and ensuring freight keeps moving even during market disruptions.
Innovation and Modernization: This merger has the potential to accelerate the adoption of smart logistics technologies, digital tracking systems, and greener fuel alternatives. As a company that values efficiency and sustainability, Macrox Transport LLC is eager to align with Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern's shared vision for innovation—one that leverages automation, data integration, and cleaner energy solutions to drive the next generation of freight transport.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger (STB Docket FD 36873)

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Norfolk Southern, Magnolia Management & Consulting, LLC strongly supports the proposed merger with Union Pacific.

At Magnolia Management, we are honored to provide hospitality services at two Norfolk Southern facilities- Brosnan Forest and Palatka Fish Camp. These facilities regularly host business leaders from various industries, serving as a hub for collaboration, innovation, and relationship-building. Through our partnership, we have witnessed firsthand the positive impact that Norfolk Southern's commitment to excellence has on its suppliers and partners.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Norfolk Southern's suppliers and partners, including:

- Expanded Networking Opportunities

We believe the proposed merger will create new opportunities for Norfolk Southern to bring industry leaders together to discuss relevant topics at their meeting facilities. These gatherings foster the establishment of new relationships and strengthen existing ones, benefiting not only the host but also its suppliers and partners.

- Potential for Growth and Employment

An increase in meetings and events because of the merger would allow Magnolia Management to hire additional staff to support the expanded activities. This growth would contribute to job creation and economic development within our local communities.

We understand that regulatory review is an essential part of this process. We respectfully encourage the relevant authorities to consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us, as well as the broader economy. The partnership between Norfolk Southern and Union Pacific has the potential to drive growth, innovation, and increased collaboration across the transportation and hospitality sectors.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. Magnolia Management & Consulting LLC looks forward to the continued growth, innovation, and partnership that this merger will bring.

Subject: Supplier Support for the Union Pacific – Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As President and CEO of Mainline Services, LLC, I want to express our strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern.

Mainline was founded in 2017 with two employees and today employs more than 200 people across seven U.S. locations and two divisions in Mexico. We specialize in track construction and maintenance, derailment and emergency response, engineering, and mechanical services. Our growth has been driven by partnerships with Class I railroads like Union Pacific, and we have seen firsthand how a strong, reliable network creates opportunities not just for railroads, but for the entire supply chain of contractors, suppliers, and communities we serve.

The proposed merger matters to us because it is not just about scale — it's about creating a more resilient and competitive freight rail system that supports American industry. A unified network will mean:

- Stronger Reliability: Direct routes and operational flexibility that reduce costly delays for our railroad partners and customers.

- Faster Transit: Shorter cycle times that improve supply chains for shippers and allow suppliers like us to reinvest in people, safety, and innovation.

- Expanded Opportunity: Access to a broader geographic footprint, which translates into more projects, more hiring, and stronger economic impact in the communities where we live and work.

- Shared Investment in Safety and Technology: With greater capacity to invest in infrastructure and innovation, Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern will continue setting industry standards. Those investments ripple down to suppliers like Mainline, raising the bar for equipment, training, and workforce development.

We recognize the importance of your regulatory review and encourage the Board to weigh the full benefits this merger brings to not only shippers and railroads but also the small and mid-sized businesses that support them.

This merger is an opportunity to strengthen America's freight backbone for decades to come. Mainline Services is proud to stand behind it.

Sincerely,

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

On behalf of Margarita Transportation, Inc., I am writing to express our strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern.

Margarita Transportation, Inc. has proudly partnered with Union Pacific through LOUP since March 2020. In the five and a half years since, LOUP at Union Pacific has remained not only our first-ever customer, but also our most important one. They entrusted us early on with critical work in equipment repositioning and drayage, and that opportunity has enabled us to grow steadily into the reliable carrier we are today.

We are a family-owned, minority-owned, and woman-owned business. Our company operates 24 hours a day, seven days a week—including holidays—so that we can meet the needs of our customers without interruption. We have built our business on reliability, flexibility, and a commitment to outperforming our competitors. Thanks to LOUP and Union Pacific, we have been able to expand our team and provide employment to numerous drivers in our community.

From our perspective as a carrier, this merger represents an important step forward for the freight rail industry. We believe it will:
- Improve transit times by creating more direct and efficient routes.
- Generate more volume of work, supporting continued growth for carriers like ours.
- Expand reach and coordination, allowing us to serve customers more effectively across a broader network.

- Enhance reliability, ensuring that businesses like ours can keep supporting our communities and customers without disruption.

The strength of our company and the strength of Union Pacific are deeply connected. We believe this merger will only make that connection stronger, driving growth, efficiency, and opportunity for all involved.

Thank you for considering our perspective. We are grateful for the continued partnership we have with LOUP at Union Pacific, and we look forward to the benefits this merger will bring to our industry, our employees, and our customers.

Sincerely,

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern, Miba Bearings US supports the proposed merger of these two historic Railroads. At Miba Bearings US, we provide hydrodynamic engine bearings and tribological solutions for electromotive diesel engines which provide the necessary power to the locomotive fleets of the United States.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners. We anticipate that the consolidation of these railroads will ensure a lasting supply chain for our products and services via reliable market presence for years to come. The enhanced rail system will also provide more streamlined offerings for delivery of our bearings from coast-to-coast. There is also an opportunity for us to increase our supplier attentiveness through combined offerings to the joint company and ease of engagement with our customer service team.

Understanding the importance of this regulatory process, we encourage the appropriate authorities to take into account the benefits this merger offers to suppliers and the broader economic landscape. We are grateful for your time and consideration and are optimistic about the opportunities for growth, innovation, and partnership that this combined enterprise will create.

Docket No. FD 36873 – Support for the Proposed Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Members of the Surface Transportation Board,

I am writing to express my strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific Railroad and Norfolk Southern Railway, as outlined in Docket No. FD 36873.

As a contractor based in Hazel Crest, Illinois, I understand firsthand the importance of a reliable, efficient, and expansive freight rail network. The creation of a unified transcontinental railroad spanning over 50,000 route miles and connecting 100 ports across 43 states represents a transformative opportunity for the U.S. transportation infrastructure.

This merger promises to:

- Streamline coast-to-coast freight movement, reducing delays at congested interchanges and improving delivery times.
- Enhance domestic manufacturing and job creation, particularly in regions that rely on rail for industrial supply chains.
- Strengthen competition against foreign-controlled logistics networks, such as those influenced by China's Belt and Road initiative.
- Improve safety and labor standards, especially with recent agreements reached between Union Pacific and major rail unions like SMART-TD.

I believe this merger is not merely a business transaction but a strategic investment in America's economic future. It will help modernize our rail system, reduce costs for consumers, and support the growth of industries that depend on efficient freight transportation.

I respectfully urge the Board to approve this merger and allow Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern to move forward with their vision of creating America's first truly transcontinental railroad.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

Mountain Intermodal, Inc. is a domestic rail carrier operating out of the Northeast with over 30 years of service and 50 employees. Our operations rely heavily on the Norfolk Southern and CSX networks, and we strongly support the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern.

At Mountain Intermodal, we provide drayage services for Union Pacific's intermodal product via Norfolk Southern and CSX terminals. Reliable access to the American freight rail network is the backbone of our business, enabling us to move goods safely, sustainably, and efficiently while supporting jobs and economic growth.

We believe the merger will deliver significant benefits to Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while delivering safe, efficient, and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate our own growth as supply demands expand following the merger.
- Improved Reliability: A unified network will create more direct routes and greater operational flexibility, reducing service interruptions that disrupt supply chains.
- Faster Transit Times: Eliminating interchanges will remove several days from transit schedules, allowing us to serve more customers more quickly and remain competitive against highway trucking.
- Stronger Investment: A transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology, and equipment, further enhancing service quality, visibility, capacity, and safety.
- Expanded Reach: Broader network access will enable us to better serve existing customers and pursue new opportunities.

We recognize the importance of regulatory review and encourage the authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have not only on suppliers like us, but also on the national economy.

Thank you for your consideration. We look forward to the growth, innovation, and strengthened partnerships that this merger will bring.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact delivery of our products and services.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster. Moreover, reduced transit times will lower our investment in inventory, allowing us to further invest in our business and employees.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

NATIONAL

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, NEI Global Relocation Company ("NEI") strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At NEI, we provide relocation management services to Union Pacific's relocating employees and their families. By providing these services, we help ensure a smooth transition for relocating transferees, providing them with peace of mind and a quicker, less stressful start in their new location, and ensuring the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient, and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger. Annually, NEI supports Union Pacific with the relocation of several hundred employees for business needs, talent development, and recruitment efforts. With a merger, we understand that talent will likely need to be redeployed and will increase these numbers. NEI has the knowledge, systems, and staffing available to support these moves to ensure a smooth transition for employees across various locations for their integration into the new combined entity. We believe this growth will further support growth and expansion across the third party suppliers that we coordinate with that also support these moves.

Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.

Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact delivery of our products and services.

Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to

A Positive Step Forward: Union Pacific–Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs:

Since 1999, my company has produced employee publications for Union Pacific. We've seen the railroad's strong commitment to keeping its people informed and connected.

Union Pacific values long service, family involvement and the ties that span generations. Its focus on engagement promotes safety, teamwork and a well-informed workforce.

The UP–Norfolk Southern merger should strengthen the industry and benefit its customers and employees through:

Stability & Security: A stronger, more balanced company with long-term job protection.
Career Growth: More opportunities, training and paths for advancement.
Shared Best Practices: Combining safety, maintenance and technology strengths.
Better Resources: Improved benefits, equipment and development programs.
Stronger Voice: Greater influence on policies and workplace improvements.
Renewed Purpose: Pride in being part of something larger and more capable.

There's much more that could be said about the benefits of this merger, but I think the point is clear.

Thank you.

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, North American Tie & Timber LLC strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At North American Tie & Timber LLC, we provide crossties, switchties, and timbers, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific operates in an environment where suppliers can thrive. We work closely with Union Pacific to create a high-quality product, which is vital for railroad safety across the country. We anticipate growth for our business with the increased demand from the proposed merger.
- Expanded Reach: We have a variety of vendors on the Norfolk Southern railway. The combined network will streamline our transportation of raw materials and allow us to increase our purchases from large and small family-owned sawmills in the eastern part of the United States.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, which will improve the efficiency of our inventory movement and reduce costs.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times. Our inventory is perishable, so the improved transit times will reduce inventory losses.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure. Increased infrastructure investment from the railroad translates to expansion for our own business.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage you to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

As a longtime economic development partner of Union Pacific, North Palisade Partners is writing to express our strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern. We rely on Union Pacific to provide efficient, reliable, and cost-effective rail service to market our real estate for industrial development.

We believe that the proposed merger will enhance competition and yield significant benefits for economic development partners like us, including:

- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and greater flexibility, minimizing the risk of service disruptions.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, allowing rail to be an even more competitive solution vs other transportation alternatives.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology, and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity, and safety.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on businesses like ours and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued partnership and enhanced service that this merger will bring.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, NRE, a TRM Equity Company strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At NRE, we provide Locomotive repairs and upgrades, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact delivery of our products and services.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster. Moreover, reduced transit times will lower our investment in inventory, allowing us to further invest in our business and employees.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

NSH USA Corporation is a long-term strategic supplier to Union Pacific, and we write to express our strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern.

NSH USA is a privately held, family-owned American company that designs and manufactures CNC machine tools, measuring machines, and industrial automation systems critical to the maintenance and production of locomotive, freight car, and passenger transit wheel sets. We are proud to be the only American-owned and American-made supplier within our segment of the rail industry.

Our machines "touch" nearly every freight locomotive operating in North America. The equipment and support services we provide are essential to ensuring the safe, reliable, and efficient operation of rail transportation across the continent.

We believe the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for suppliers and partners who share Union Pacific's commitment to safety, innovation, and long-term value creation. In our experience, Union Pacific consistently makes strategic decisions that strengthen operational performance and workforce safety. A current example is the company's investment in a state-of-the-art wheel shop in North Little Rock, Arkansas—an advanced facility that will create high-paying, highly skilled jobs while integrating automation to enhance safety and efficiency.

The combination of Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern would expand geographic reach and unlock new opportunities for collaboration and innovation. We believe it would naturally lead to the development of an eastern wheel shop, extending the same benefits that will be realized in Arkansas.

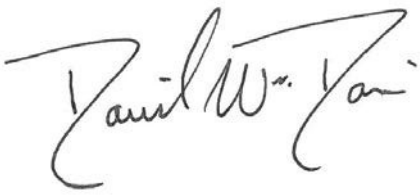
Norfolk Southern's strong mechanical and technical workforce, combined with Union Pacific's long-term strategic vision, would form a powerful foundation for America's first true transcontinental railroad.



Our Canadian customers—CPKC and CN—have operated transcontinental and transnational rail networks for decades. It is time for the United States to have the same advantage.

We recognize the importance of thorough regulatory review and trust that the Board will carefully consider the broad economic and industrial benefits this merger offers—not only for the railroads involved, but also for their supply chain partners and the nation's transportation infrastructure.

We look forward to continued growth, innovation, and partnership as this important merger moves forward.

Re: Proposed Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs and Members of the Board:

At ORBCOMM, we provide visibility data across both the intermodal ecosystem — including railroads, asset owners, intermodal marketing companies, beneficial cargo owners, drayage providers — as well as the rest of the supply chain, including over-the-road carriers. Our mission is to deliver trusted service metrics that improve efficiency, accountability, and transparency across the freight network.

We recognize that the proposed Union Pacific–Norfolk Southern merger has the potential to reduce interchange bottlenecks and improve network velocity and reliability through streamlining of operations and advancements in technology and service. These are outcomes that benefit shippers, carriers, and the public. Our contribution is to provide agnostic, verifiable service metrics — including dwell time, container turns, and on-time performance — that complement railroad reporting.

The proposed merger promises to drive meaningful advancement within the rail industry, enhancing operational transparency, system resilience, and service reliability. These improvements align with the Board's mandate for a competitive and efficient freight network that delivers measurable public benefits.

ORBCOMM stands ready to support it and our railroad partners with independent service data that is designed to ensure the public benefits of this proposed merger are both measurable and sustainable.

Respectfully,

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, PalmMarket.Com, Inc strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At PalmMarket.Com, Inc, we provide agriculture products, fruit and palm sales, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country. The American freight rail network is the backbone of our operations, enabling us to move products sustainably and efficiently while supporting jobs and economic growth.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact supply schedules.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety.
- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a partner of Union Pacific, Panattoni Development Company is writing to express our strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern. We develop warehouse, distribution and manufacturing facilities across North America and our customers rely on Union Pacific to provide efficient and cost-effective rail services that they can rely on for the safe, timely delivery of their products.

We believe that the proposed merger will enhance competition and yield significant benefits for our customers and partners like us, including:

- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and greater flexibility, minimizing the risk of service disruptions.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, allowing rail to be an even more competitive solution vs other transportation alternatives.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology, and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity, and safety.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on businesses like ours and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued partnership and enhanced service that this merger will bring.

Subject: Support for the Proposed Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a long-standing engineering consultant to Union Pacific Railroad ("Union Pacific"), Patrick Engineering Inc., a RINA company, ("RINA North America") is pleased to express our support for the proposed merger of Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Railroad ("Norfolk Southern").

For many years, we have provided engineering, design, and technical consulting services to Union Pacific on complex rail infrastructure and systems projects, that enhance safety, efficiency, and operational resilience. That collaboration has given us a deep appreciation for Union Pacific's disciplined, data-driven approach to improvement and its sustained investment in infrastructure that strengthens the national rail network.

From our perspective as a U.S. engineering and infrastructure services firm, the merger offers meaningful opportunities for growth and expanded reach. A combined network will enable more seamless coordination of multi-state infrastructure programs, improve service reliability and planning efficiency, and reduce downstream project costs while allowing partners like RINA North America to align technical resources with the rail industry's evolving needs.

We believe this merger represents an important step toward a modern, well-connected freight rail system. A unified network will improve fluidity, reduce interchange-related delays, and bolster supply chain resilience, benefiting shippers, suppliers, and communities nationwide. The efficiencies achieved will also encourage continued private-sector investment in technology, infrastructure, and workforce development, objectives that align with the Board's focus on evidence-based regulation and the long-term vitality and competitiveness of America's rail infrastructure and economy, which will be further strengthened and accelerated as a result of this proposed merger.

Union Pacific has consistently demonstrated professionalism, integrity, and a collaborative spirit in its partnerships. We are confident these same principles will guide the combined company as it advances economic growth and the safe, sustainable movement of goods across the country.

Thank you for your consideration. We appreciate the Board's commitment to transparency, efficiency, and balanced oversight in its review of this important transaction, and we look forward to contributing to the continued growth, advancement, and innovation of America's rail infrastructure.

Sincerely,

RE: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs:

As a proud supplier to both Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Corporation, PCL Construction, Inc. ("PCL") supports the proposed merger of these two companies.

At PCL, we are a general contractor who provides bridge maintenance, rehabilitation and new construction services, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's needs expand following the merger.
- Improved Service Reliability: We understand the combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility for the railroad. This will help reduce service interruptions that can impact the delivery of construction materials across our sectors.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, we understand the combination will remove several days from transit times, which will improve construction material delivery schedules.

PCL Construction, Inc.

- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased infrastructure investment from the railroad directly translates to increased investment in our own business through bridge maintenance, rehabilitation and new construction contracts.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on partners like us and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud small business supplier to Union Pacific, Pearsall Railroad Services, LLC looks forward to the opportunity for growth that would be supported by the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

Pearsall Railroad Services is a family-owned small business focused on providing excellence in construction management and engineering professional services—services which are vital to the major infrastructure investments made by the railroad annually to ensure safe and reliable operation of freight rail service across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will be beneficial for Union Pacific's suppliers, partners, and customers. We believe these benefits will be realized through improved service reliability, reduced transit times, access to new markets, and increased investment in infrastructure and technology, ultimately driving improvements in safety and efficiency.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we are grateful the relevant authorities will carefully consider the impact this merger will have on suppliers, shippers, railroad communities, and the broader economy.

Thank you for your thoughtful consideration of this potential merger. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership in the railroad industry.

PINAL PARTNERSHIP
Uniting the Vision for Pinal County

The Honorable Patrick J. Fuchs
Chairman
Surface Transportation Board

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As the recent past Mayor of the City of Casa Grande and now President & CEO of the Pinal Partnership (an Economic Development organization supporting Pinal County) I know how important Union Pacific is to our industry and our community. Pinal Partnership is writing to express our strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern.

Our community depends on efficient, reliable, and cost-effective rail service to meet the needs of our local industry like Frito Lay, Abbott, Hexcel, Diamond Plastics and Kohler just to name a few. Union Pacific ensure the safe, timely delivery of supplies and products across the country. Our local industry transports everything from plastic resins for making PVC pipes, honeycomb material used in drones, and shower enclosures. Agricultural products like corn and milk are used in Lays potato chips, Fritos, and dairy products used in baby formula and yogurt. Chemicals products that are used in the making of computer chip manufacturing. These products and supplies are received from all over the nation and shipped back out to country and the rest of the world.

The American freight rail network is a critical component of our supply chain, allowing us to move large volumes efficiently and sustainably. We understand the importance of rail to our employees, our products, and our national economy. We also understand firsthand how these rail networks need new investments, and new commitments for growth and innovation, so that the state of Arizona and our local communities will continue to grow and have a bright future.

We believe that the proposed merger will enhance competition and yield significant benefits for Union Pacific and our local industry, including:

- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and greater flexibility, minimizing the risk of service disruptions.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more local and national industrial customers, faster.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology, and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity, and safety.

- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on businesses like ours and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued partnership and enhanced service that this merger will bring.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, Pinnacle Consulting Solutions & Services Inc. (Pinnacle) strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At Pinnacle, we provide SAP Implementations, SAP Support, Enterprise AI products and Services, Program Management and Advisory, Cyber Resilience and Disaster Recovery Implementations and SAP Custom Development in RISE PCE, S/4 HANA On-Premises and SAP BTP. Additionally, we provide tech due diligence services for M&A, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact delivery of our products and services.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster. Moreover, reduced transit times will lower our investment in inventory, allowing us to further invest in our business and employees.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud and long-standing supplier to Union Pacific Railroad (UP) and a strategic partner to Norfolk Southern Railway (NS), PowerRail supports an open and competitive rail industry that fosters innovation, efficiency, and improved service for customers and suppliers alike.

For many years, Norfolk Southern has been an important customer to PowerRail. We have worked closely with their teams to support locomotive overhaul programs, provide reliable component solutions, and help ensure the continued availability and performance of their fleet. Similarly, PowerRail has maintained a productive and trusted relationship with Union Pacific, delivering high-quality locomotive products, responsive service, and technical support to help meet their operational goals.

We believe that greater collaboration and alignment between Class I railroads—including UP and NS—will create opportunities to enhance network performance, reduce service disruptions, and promote healthy competition across the industry. This balance will not only improve service levels but also drive long-term sustainability and growth for the broader rail supply chain.

As a company dedicated to keeping North America's railroads running safely and efficiently, PowerRail looks forward to being an even greater contributor in the years ahead. We remain committed to supporting both Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern as they continue to advance their operational and service objectives in a competitive and customer-focused market.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a long-standing supplier to Union Pacific, Pride Intermodal is pleased to express our strong support for the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern. At Pride Intermodal, our team specializes in drayage services that keep Union Pacific's intermodal operations running smoothly. Day in and day out, we see firsthand how critical freight rail is to our economy, allowing goods to move reliably, sustainably, and efficiently across the country while supporting the jobs and communities connected to this industry.

From our perspective, the merger represents a significant opportunity for Union Pacific and for its network of partners and suppliers like us. We believe the combined network will foster meaningful business growth by expanding supply needs and creating new avenues for collaboration. The merger also promises to enhance service reliability by offering more direct routes and greater operational flexibility, which will help minimize the types of disruptions that slow down supply chains. Just as important, faster transit times resulting from the reduction of interchanges will strengthen our ability to serve current customers while opening doors to new ones.

In addition, a stronger transcontinental system will be well-positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology, and equipment, creating long-term improvements in capacity, safety, and service quality. Finally, the expanded geographic reach that this merger enables will allow companies like ours to better serve communities across the country and provide more opportunities for growth in the markets we touch.

We respect the importance of regulatory review and believe this process will underscore the positive impacts this merger will bring to suppliers, customers, and the broader economy. Thank you for considering our perspective. Pride Intermodal looks forward to the growth, innovation, and collaboration that this merger will make possible.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger (STB Docket FD 36873)

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud technology partner to Norfolk Southern, Princeton Consultants strongly supports the proposed merger with Union Pacific.

At Princeton Consultants, we provide advanced technology solutions and consulting services for the rail industry, including core operational system design and integration, decision intelligence tools, and industry-standard solutions for safety, security, and Positive Train Control management. Our work is essential to the safe, efficient, and reliable operation of freight rail service across the country. Currently, we are developing next-generation core operational systems for Norfolk Southern, and our rail practice has served most of the Class I railroads over our decades of industry experience.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Norfolk Southern's technology partners and for the rail industry as a whole, including:

- Enhanced System Integration Opportunities: The combined network will create opportunities to implement more comprehensive and efficient operational systems across a broader footprint, allowing technology solutions to deliver greater value and operational improvements at scale.
- Expanded Service Capabilities: Our ability to support a transcontinental network will enable us to leverage our experience across multiple Class I railroads to deliver innovative solutions that serve a wider customer base and broader geographic reach.
- Improved Operational Efficiency: The merged railroad's more direct routes and increased operational flexibility will benefit from advanced technology solutions that can optimize performance across the enhanced network, reducing service interruptions and improving reliability for shippers.
- Accelerated Technology Investment: A stronger, combined railroad will be better positioned to invest in modernizing technology infrastructure and implementing next-generation operational systems. This increased investment in digital transformation will enhance service quality, capacity, safety, and competitiveness for the entire rail industry.
- Industry-Wide Innovation: Drawing on our experience working with multiple Class I railroads, we recognize that strategic combinations can drive industry-wide improvements in technology adoption and operational best practices, ultimately benefiting shippers, suppliers, and the broader economy.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on technology partners like us, the advancement of rail technology, and the broader economy.

October 7, 2025

The Honorable Patrick J. Fuchs
Chairman
Surface Transportation Board
395 E Street SW
Washington, DC 20423

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, Professional Transportation, Inc. strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At Professional Transportation, Inc., we provide crew transportation services as well as auto ramp and intermodal services for the railroad industry. Operating 24/7 across 36 states, PTI moves railroad employees safely and reliably between work sites and assignments. With thousands of drivers, ramp employees, and support staff, the company serves class I railroads nationwide, emphasizing safety, dependability, and on-time performance, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail services across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. As a current crew transportation provider for both UP and NS, PTI anticipates expanded demand for moving railroad employees across a larger network, creating opportunities to grow our operations and workforce.

- Expanded Reach: With Union Pacific's broadened geographic footprint, PTI will be able to transport crews across more locations nationwide, allowing us to better serve existing rail partners and extend our services to new regions.

- Improved Service Reliability: A more integrated rail system will simplify crew scheduling and deployment. PTI will benefit from greater operational efficiency and fewer service interruptions, ensuring that railroad employees arrive safely and on time to keep trains moving.

- Reduced Transit Times: Faster, more direct rail connections will reduce the need for crew repositioning and minimize wait times, enabling PTI to deploy drivers more efficiently and provide quicker, more dependable transportation for railroad personnel.

- Increased Investment: A stronger, transcontinental Union Pacific will be positioned to invest in infrastructure and technology that complement PTI's own safety and reliability initiatives. As the railroad invests, PTI can expand its fleet, enhance training programs, and support our employees with better tools to serve customers.

PTI PROFESSIONAL TRANSPORTATION, INC.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

Progress Rail
A Caterpillar Company

The Honorable Patrick J. Fuchs
Chairman
Surface Transportation Board
395 E Street SW
Washington, DC 20423

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

Progress Rail is a proud supplier to Union Pacific and provides a wide variety of products and services that are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country. More specifically and among other things, Progress Rail:

- Is an original equipment manufacturer of locomotives and locomotive components. Progress Rail supplies both new and remanufactured locomotives to Union Pacific to help provide engine power that Union Pacific needs to haul freight;
- Supplies wheelset components to help ensure freight railcars can properly haul goods;
- Designs and manufactures specialty trackwork, as well as providing other infrastructure products and services for Union Pacific; and,
- Supports a sustainable ecosystem for Union Pacific by recycling the railroad's used track and scrap metal materials.

Rail is the most fuel-efficient way to move freight across land; one train can remove hundreds of trucks from the highway, significantly reducing traffic congestion and deterioration of roadways and bridges. Furthermore, every "$1 invested in rail transportation drives $2.50 in economic activity" and "every railroad job creates 3.9 additional jobs in industries like manufacturing, logistics and technology." (Data from the Association of American Railroads (AAR) Freight Rail's Economic Impact Fact Sheet at aar.org ("Fact Sheet"))

Despite these advantages, Class I railroad volumes have remained flat, primarily due to transit reliability and customer experience challenges including lower on-time performance and pricing.

We believe that the proposed merger can improve the effectiveness of railroad operations to better support customers and enhance competition with trucking. Through integration of Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern's rail footprints, the merged railroad will operate the first coast-to-coast rail network in the U.S., allowing customer to avoid issues in interchange between multiple railroads that have historically made rail shipments more cumbersome and less attractive compared to trucking. By eliminating these interchanges where railcars are handed off, this should reduce transit times, enabling more efficient transit and more competitive service, particularly in shorter and intermediate routes.

- Increased competitiveness with trucking benefits the American economy by:
  - Supporting US taxpayers: Unlike trucking operations which rely on taxpayer-funded infrastructure, US railroads invest in their own infrastructure. Increased use of railroads to haul freight in lieu of trucking may lower US taxpayer costs by reducing investments needed to support public roads used by the trucking industry.

- Reducing overall public roadway congestion: Increased use of railroads to haul freight, and reduced use of trucking, limits the number of trucks on public highways and roads that otherwise drive congestion and gridlock. Per data from the AAR's Fact Sheet, one single train can replace hundreds of trucks on the road.
- Reducing overall costs: Experts in recent STB hearings have noted that overall societal costs from trucking, including impacts to safety, infrastructure damage, and emissions among other things, is "eight times higher than rail transportation on a per-ton mile basis". (STB: Hearing on Growth in the Freight Rail Industry, transcript page 335).
- Improving air quality in the U.S.: Moving goods by rail reduces greenhouse gas emissions by 75% on average compared to trucking, per AAR Fact Sheet data. By increasing use of railroad shipments versus trucking, this can drive significant improvements in American air quality.

Progress Rail supports any efficiencies that can increase the rail industry's position relative to trucking and believes that such increased competitiveness will spur significant benefits for the American economy.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger (STB Docket FD 36873)

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a trusted staffing partner to Norfolk Southern, we are pleased to express our strong support for the proposed merger. Over the years, we've had the privilege of helping Norfolk Southern build and sustain a skilled workforce to meet its operational goals. Through that partnership, we've seen firsthand the company's commitment to safety, efficiency, and continuous improvement—and we believe this merger represents an important step forward for everyone involved.

Driving Mutual Growth:
Norfolk Southern has always fostered an environment where partners like us can grow alongside the company. As the merger expands Norfolk Southern's scale and operations, we expect continued growth in workforce demand, creating new opportunities to support the company's evolving needs while expanding employment opportunities within the communities we serve.

Expanding Reach and Opportunity:
The merger's expanded geographic footprint will allow us to support Norfolk Southern's workforce needs across a broader network. This reach positions us to deliver consistent, high-quality talent solutions that align with Norfolk Southern's increased service capabilities.

Investing in the Future:
A stronger, transcontinental railroad will have greater capacity to invest in infrastructure, technology, and people. We anticipate that these investments will translate into more efficient operations, safer worksites, and enhanced opportunities for both employees and staffing partners.

We are proud to stand behind Norfolk Southern as it pursues this merger and the shared growth it promises. We believe this step will strengthen not only the railroad but also the many businesses and workers who help power its success every day.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, Pyramid Resources Inc. strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At Pyramid Resources Inc., we provide construction services, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact delivery of our products and services.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster. Moreover, reduced transit times will lower our investment in inventory, allowing us to further invest in our business and employees.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a long-standing service provider to Union Pacific Railroad, Quality Rail Service (QRS) proudly supports the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern.

At QRS, we specialize in locomotive repair and maintenance, providing a range of mechanical and field services that help keep freight operations safe, efficient, and on schedule. In addition, our crews perform load adjustments and transfer services directly on Norfolk Southern properties, ensuring freight continuity and minimizing downtime across rail networks.

We believe this merger will create measurable benefits not only for Class I carriers, but also for the supporting network of rail service providers, including:

- Improved Network Efficiency: A unified transcontinental system will provide stronger operational connectivity, reducing interchanges and eliminating delays that impact both railroads and their service partners.
- Enhanced Opportunities for Growth: As Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern expand their combined footprint, suppliers and maintenance providers like QRS will be better positioned to support additional facilities, field operations, and capital projects.
- Investment in Infrastructure and Safety: The integration of networks will promote greater investment in infrastructure, technology, and safety programs—areas where QRS actively contributes through ongoing locomotive support and field readiness.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a strategic partner of Union Pacific, Quantum Metric, Inc. is writing to express our strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern.

Quantum Metric is a customer-centered digital analytics platform that empowers organizations to build better digital experiences through real-time insights and data-driven decision-making. Trusted by leading global brands across industries such as retail, travel, financial services, healthcare, and telecommunications, Quantum Metric helps enterprises monitor, diagnose, and optimize critical digital journeys. Our platform captures over 7 billion sessions monthly and supports nearly half of the world's internet users, driving measurable value through our Continuous Product Design methodology.

Quantum Metric has been a strategic partner of Union Pacific, supporting their digital transformation initiatives with advanced analytics capabilities that enhance customer experience, operational efficiency, and technology modernization. In every engagement, we've seen Union Pacific approach innovation with precision and purpose—leveraging data to drive scalable outcomes while maintaining high standards of business continuity and customer satisfaction.

As a strategic partner, Quantum Metric understands the vital role rail plays in national infrastructure and the importance of streamlined digital operations in maintaining commerce. We also serve many customers and suppliers of Union Pacific, giving us firsthand insight into how technology investments reflect a commitment to safety, growth, and innovation.

We believe the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's strategic partners, including:

- Improved Supply Chain Connectivity: The combined network will enhance supply chain visibility, enabling platforms like ours to better support digital logistics and IT needs. Union Pacific's modern digital environment positions them as a plug-and-play partner with secure, efficient infrastructure.

- Enhanced Customer Experience: The merger will facilitate faster deployment of digital capabilities to a broader customer base, improving service delivery and satisfaction.
- Increased Investment: A transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, security, and technology—further elevating service quality, capacity, and safety.
- Innovation & Efficiency: The scale of the combined network will accelerate technological innovation and operational efficiency, enhancing customer and supplier experiences through advanced analytics and real-time insights.

We recognize that regulatory review is a critical part of this process and encourage the relevant authorities to consider the positive impact this merger will have on businesses like ours and the broader economy.

We also want to acknowledge Union Pacific's excellence in executing large-scale technology transitions. Their meticulous approach to digital modernization—grounded in security, precision, and customer-centricity—sets a benchmark for the industry.

Thank you for considering our perspective. We look forward to continued partnership and the enhanced opportunities this merger will bring.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, QuEST Rail LLC strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

QuEST Rail is a Missouri-based business that I founded in 2002. Union Pacific was the first Class I railroad to give us an opportunity to be a direct supplier. Today, we are the industry's largest supplier of local control panels, devices that enable rail traffic to be managed onsite when needed rather than controlled centrally (for UP, that would be the Harriman Dispatching Center in Omaha). These devices are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country. We have a great many other devices used by the rail industry, as can be seen (and purchased) at www.questrail.com. We also routinely manufacture rail products for the larger suppliers in our industry.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy. The Honorable Patrick J. Fuchs Chairman Surface Transportation Board 395 E Street SW Washington, DC 20423

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a long-standing contractor to Norfolk Southern, R&R Consulting TEAM LLC is proud to express our support for the proposed merger with Union Pacific Railroad.

R&R Consulting provides Railroad Worker In-Charge (RWIC) protection, DOT project coordination, and field compliance oversight across multiple Railroad networks. Our teams play a key role in maintaining safe and efficient operations during construction, maintenance, and emergency response activities on active railroad rights-of-way.

Through this work, we've seen first-hand how vital Norfolk Southern's partnerships are to the safety and reliability of the national rail system. We believe the proposed merger with Union Pacific will strengthen these partnerships and deliver tangible benefits to contractors, regulators, and the public alike:

· Expanded National Coverage: The creation of the first true transcontinental railroad will simplify project coordination and safety compliance across regions that currently require multiple carrier interfaces.

· Improved Continuity for DOT Projects: Federal and state transportation projects already rely heavily on both railroads' infrastructure. A unified network will enhance accountability and reduce administrative delays, helping keep federally funded projects on schedule and within regulatory compliance.

· Enhanced Investment in Field Safety: A larger, better-capitalized network is positioned to reinvest in technology, training, and oversight programs that directly improve field safety performance.

R&R Consulting TEAM, LLC

PO Box 4739
Harrisburg, PA 17111

· National Workforce Stability: The merger will allow R&R to plan and schedule projects under a single set of standards nationwide; eliminating the inefficiencies and procedural conflicts that currently exist when working between two Class I systems.

We understand the importance of this regulatory review and encourage the Board to consider the significant efficiencies, safety improvements, and public benefit this merger will create.

R&R Consulting TEAM LLC remains committed to supporting Norfolk Southern, Union Pacific, and the communities they serve as this historic transition unfolds.

Subject: Railhead Supplier Perspective on the Proposed Union Pacific–Norfolk Southern Combination

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

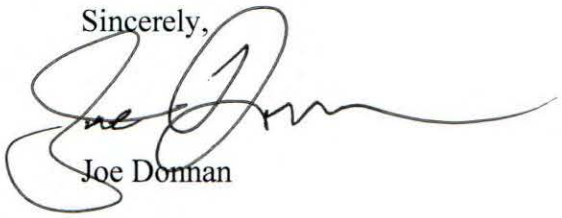
Railhead Corporation appreciates the opportunity to share a supplier perspective regarding the proposed Union Pacific–Norfolk Southern transaction. Railhead designs and supplies locomotive LED lighting, safety equipment, and maintenance tools that support the safe, reliable operation of North America's freight rail network.

We value our long-standing partnership with Union Pacific and our relationships with all Class I railroads, as well as short lines, OEMs, and contractors. From our vantage point, the proposal has the potential—if appropriately conditioned and implemented—to enhance network reliability and scale adoption of safety and efficiency technologies. Our support is principles-based, not carrier-comparative: we favor outcomes that strengthen the rail ecosystem while preserving robust competition and service quality for shippers.

From a supplier standpoint, we respectfully highlight the following considerations:

- Safety, Reliability, and Efficiency at Scale. A combined network could accelerate deployment of proven safety and lifecycle-cost improvements (e.g., energy-efficient lighting and modern safety equipment), improving on-time performance for critical components.
- Streamlined Standards and Reach. Greater geographic continuity and harmonized specifications can reduce delays, simplify procurement and training, and improve parts availability.
- Reduced Variability and Dwell. Fewer interchanges and more direct routing can reduce transit times and variability, enabling leaner inventories and faster response to railroad and shipper needs.

- Sustained Capital Investment. A stronger balance sheet can support continued investment in infrastructure, technology, and equipment—investments that also encourage suppliers to expand capacity, domestic manufacturing, and workforce development.



We also recognize the Board's mandate to safeguard competition, service, labor, and community interests. To align potential efficiencies with those objectives, we would be supportive of an approval framework that includes clear, enforceable safeguards to:

- Preserve robust competition and shipper choice, including protection of open gateways and interchange
- Maintain vendor-neutral procurement so suppliers of all sizes compete on safety, quality, and value
- Uphold transparent service metrics and accountability to ensure reliability for shippers and suppliers
- Support workforce continuity and safety, which are essential to resilient execution.

In our view, pairing targeted conditions with the potential network benefits can deliver durable value for shippers, employees, communities, and the domestic supply base—while respecting the competitive vitality of other Class I railroads we proudly serve.

Thank you for your consideration of Railhead's perspective. We stand ready to provide any additional information that would assist the Board's review.

Sincerely,

Joe Donnan

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, Railpower Tech LLC strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At Railpower Tech LLC, we provide parts and technical service for Railpower yard locomotives, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact delivery of our products and services.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster. Moreover, reduced transit times will lower our investment in inventory, allowing us to further invest in our business and employees.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, RailPros strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

RailPros is a leading provider of services to the North American rail industry, including full-service engineering, diversified safety services, right-of-way management services, safety training, and consulting on operational efficiencies and track improvements in industrial spaces. The services we provide are essential to keep Americans - and their goods - moving across the United States. We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers, partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where service providers and suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient, and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's service needs and supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping to reduce service interruptions and create a more vibrant and efficient delivery of products and services across America.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, provides improved goods movement to more customers, faster. Moreover, reduced transit times will lower shippers' investment in inventory, allowing further investment in the overall economy.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology, and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity, and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on service providers and suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger, Docket Number: FD 36873

Dear Chairman Fuchs:

As President of Railroad Track Construction and Maintenance Inc. (RTCM Inc,), I am writing to express my strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern.

Freight rail is a cornerstone of our state's economy, safely moving the goods that power our industries, support our farmers and connect our communities to markets across the nation and the world. Union Pacific has long been an essential transportation partner for our state, providing efficient, reliable and cost-effective service to businesses large and small. The American freight rail network is not only critical to our economic growth – it is also one of the most sustainable modes of transportation available, helping reduce highway congestion and emissions.

The proposed merger offers a unique opportunity to strengthen this network and deliver tangible benefits for shippers, consumers and communities, including:

- Improved Service Reliability: More direct routes and greater operational flexibility will help prevent service disruptions and improve schedule dependability.
- Reduced Transit Times: Eliminating certain interchanges will speed the movement of goods, helping our businesses reach customers faster and more competitively.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in modern infrastructure, advanced technology and enhanced safety systems.
- Expanded Reach: The broader geographic footprint will open new markets for our state's products and strengthen supply chain resilience.

This merger is about more than just railroads – it's about securing the future of our transportation network, supporting economic development and ensuring American freight rail remains globally competitive.

I respectfully urge the Surface Transportation Board to give full and favorable consideration to this proposal, recognizing the benefits it will bring to our state and the national economy.

Sincerely,

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, Ralph L. Wadsworth Construction strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At Ralph L. Wadsworth Construction, we deliver bridge and civil infrastructure solutions — including drainage systems, retaining walls, earthwork, and tunnels — that are essential to the safe and reliable operation of freight rail service nationwide. Our partnership with Union Pacific has allowed us to contribute to critical projects that strengthen the rail network and enhance transportation efficiency across the country.

We believe the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient, and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate our business will grow as supply demands expand following the merger.
- Expanded Reach: A broader geographic footprint will enable us to better serve existing customers and reach new ones.

- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will provide more direct routes and greater operational flexibility, reducing service interruptions that can affect the delivery of our products and services.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the merger will shorten transit times by several days — allowing us to deliver more efficiently and invest more in our employees and operations.
- Increased Investment: A stronger, transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology, and equipment — improvements that will enhance capacity, safety, and service quality. Increased investment from the railroad translates into greater investment and opportunity for suppliers like us.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the Board to carefully consider the positive impacts this merger will have on suppliers, customers, and the broader economy.

Thank you for considering our perspective. We look forward to continued growth, innovation, and partnership as this merger moves forward.

Expression of Support for the Union Pacific – Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

On behalf of Renteq Industrial, a long-standing supplier to Union Pacific, I am writing to express our strong support for the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

Renteq Industrial provides drayage services for Union Pacific's intermodal operations through rail terminals in Mexico, which are vital to ensuring the safe and seamless movement of freight across the nation. The American freight rail network is the foundation of our business, enabling us to transport products efficiently, sustainably, and in a manner that fosters economic growth and employment.

We believe the proposed merger will generate substantial benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific has created an environment where suppliers can succeed by delivering safe, reliable, and cost-effective solutions. We expect this merger will further expand opportunities for growth as supply chain demands increase.
- Enhanced Service Reliability: A combined network will provide more direct routes and greater operational flexibility, minimizing service disruptions that affect supply schedules.
- Reduced Transit Times: By removing interchange handoffs, the merger will significantly shorten transit times, allowing suppliers like us to deliver goods to customers faster and more dependably.
- Increased Investment: The unified transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology, and equipment, strengthening service quality, capacity, and safety.
- Broader Market Reach: Access to an expanded geographic footprint will improve our ability to serve existing customers and reach new markets.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a long-term partner with Union Pacific, Renze Display strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern. U.P. is a solid company, employing tens of thousands of people, with a partnership approach to all aspects of their business. In our experience everyone in the company is a valued team member striving for customer satisfaction, safety and continued growth.

Renze has partnered with U.P. nearly since our inception in 1895. In fact, U.P. was one of the first companies to support our business, believing in the value of branding and being proud to show it in a graphical way; leading the way for others to follow. Renze believes this merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers, partners, and customers by reducing touch points on everyday shipments and increasing everyone's speed to market.

We are happy to make this recommendation, as Union Pacific is one of the reasons Renze is still in business 130 years later. This merger will open doors for our company to further expand our craft and showcase what is possible when you proudly share your brand and follow through on the promises that brand represents.

Thank you for your consideration. We are excited about the growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Norfolk Southern, Revolution Technologies, LLC strongly supports the proposed merger with Union Pacific.

At Revolution Technologies, we provide information technology consulting and staffing, including rail operations' subject matter expertise, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail services across the country.
We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Norfolk Southern's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Norfolk Southern fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand, along with the ongoing need for advance technology support and services, as a result of the merger.
- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact delivery of our products and services.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling the merged companies to deliver more goods to more customers, faster. Moreover, reduced transit times will lower the combined companies' investment in inventory, allowing them to further invest in their employees, technology platforms and business.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. As a strategic partner to NS we foresee that increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact delivery of our products and services.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster. Moreover, reduced transit times will lower our investment in inventory, allowing us to further invest in our business and employees.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.
Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

RoadOne IntermodaLogistics

Solutions That Connect.

Subject: RoadOne Intermodal Logistics Supports UP–NS Merger, Eyes Single-Line Intermodal Advantages

Randolph, MA – RoadOne IntermodaLogistics, a leading national intermodal transportation provider, today announced its support for the proposed Union Pacific–Norfolk Southern merger. The transaction creates a unified coast-to-coast rail network will offer uninterrupted, single-line haul service for containerized freight, allowing shipments to travel cross-country without switching railroads, eliminating interchange delays and improving reliability. RoadOne believes the merger's one-stop rail service will streamline coordination for intermodal carriers, speeding up transit times and simplifying tracking for customers.

Ken Kellaway, CEO of RoadOne IntermoaLogistics, welcomed the news: "As an intermodal logistics company, we're thrilled to see these railroads join forces. A single-line coast-to-coast rail service will make shipping more efficient than ever – no handoffs in between means faster deliveries, easier scheduling, and greater reliability for our containers. This merger will let us work with one integrated rail partner from origin to destination, which translates to better service for our customers and our drivers. RoadOne fully supports the UP–NS merger because it will strengthen the intermodal supply chain and help us serve shippers better than ever."

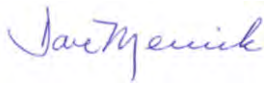
RE: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs:

RoadSafe Traffic Systems, Inc. ("RoadSafe") is providing this correspondence to express its support for the proposed merger by and between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern.

RoadSafe has enjoyed more than a decade-long relationship with Union Pacific. We provide traffic control services to the railroads so that they may perform maintenance and upgrades to their tracks, particularly at railroad crossings. Our job is to ensure that not only are the rail workers provided a safe work zone to perform their activities, but also that the traveling public and the communities in which they operate have an informed and safe route to travel while these operations are ongoing. Maintenance of tracks and upgrades to crossings are an integral part of America's infrastructure and we are proud to be a part of it.



We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for RoadSafe and the community at large, including:

- Increased coverage: As we have a national footprint, RoadSafe anticipates that this merger would allow it to provide its services to a greater coverage area, bringing consistency of the traffic control industry's best practices that it currently provides to Union Pacific while growing our business at the same time.
- Conformity of Best Practices: Union Pacific has provided a steady, reliable and transparent environment for RoadSafe. It has put safety first in its operations and understands that this is paramount above all else. In our unique industry, having a partner that appreciates and champions this principle truly services the community at large. Through this merger, consistency of safety best practices could more easily be achieved.
- Increased Maintenance Activities: Through this proposed merger, RoadSafe would expect that the resulting entity would be better positioned to invest in its infrastructure, technology and most importantly, safety. Companies like RoadSafe would benefit from

RoadSafe was pleased to learn of this proposed merger and the positive impact it could have not only on our company, but on America's infrastructure as well. In its review, we encourage the Board to consider the opportunities for various vendors, including safety vendors, to provide better and more consistent services amongst America's railroads.

Sincerely,

Dave Meirick

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a strategic partner of Union Pacific, Saicon is writing to express our strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern.

Saicon is a certified IT consulting company headquartered in Overland Park, Kansas. Founded in 1999, Saicon has expanded to 9 locations in the US and 3 locations globally, with over 700 employees. The company is known for its recruitment services and has a strong commitment to client satisfaction through its high standards of security, quality, and best practices in the space of technology.

Since becoming a strategic partner of Union Pacific in 2020, Saicon has supported several high-visibility technology programs including technology evolution and modernization, project management, user experience and design, and platform data modernization. In every program and deployment, it has been our experience that Union Pacific approaches technology with an innovative mindset, pursuing the art of what's possible while maintaining high standards of business continuity and customer experience excellence.

As a national and global services provider, we understand the importance of rail to our national critical infrastructure and the broader impact to the global markets we serve. We also have the pleasure of serving many customers and suppliers of Union Pacific, so we understand firsthand how investments in technology modernization represent commitment to stability, growth and innovation.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific strategic partners like us, including:

- Improved Supply Chain Connectivity: The combined network will offer more transparent supply chain visibility, thus enabling solutions that partners like Saicon develop and partner to deploy to better serve supply chain operations.
- Enhanced Customer Experience: The combined network will enable rapid deployment of capabilities to a broader set of customers. Rather than a siloed technology experience for customers, they will benefit from unified solutions, benefitting rail as a competitive mode.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology, and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity, and safety.
- Innovation: Sheer scale of operations, financials, supply, human resources, and emerging tech will provide a larger and faster return on innovation. Solution deployment value will be multiplied.

Finally, as a small, US-headquartered business, we've also seen firsthand how Union Pacific builds America by creating opportunities for businesses like ours to provide value-added services to their organization and develop innovative technological solutions that power their daily operations.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on businesses like ours and the broader economy. We also want to acknowledge the scale and precision that Saicon has witnessed while working with Union Pacific during our long-term engagements. We've seen direct precision execution of large scale, highly impactful technology transitions. Done in a surgical, and methodical way, with emphasis on business continuity and customer experience as unparalleled standards.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued partnership and enhanced service that this merger will bring.

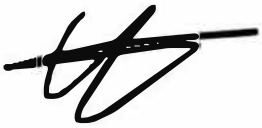
Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a longtime developer of Union Pacific served industrial parks, Saint Holdings, LLC is writing to express our strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern.



Our parks depend on efficient, reliable, and cost-effective rail service to meet the needs of our diverse range of rail served customers and ensure the safe, timely delivery of products across the country. At Saint Holdings we support economic development by attracting employers that produce and ship a wide range of products to several markets, internationally and domestically. Having developed two Union Pacific Focus Sites, we see every day how the American freight rail network is a critical component of our supply chain, allowing our partners to move large volumes efficiently and sustainably. We understand the importance of rail to our employees, our products, and our national economy. We also understand firsthand how these rail networks need new investments, and new commitments for growth and innovation, so that Saint Holdings has a bright future.

We believe that the proposed merger will enhance competition and yield significant benefits for Union Pacific partners like us, including:

- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and greater flexibility, minimizing the risk of service disruptions.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more consumers], faster.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger, Docket Number: FD 36873

Dear Chairman Fuchs:

As-CEO of Santa Teresa Rail Transloading Services Inc. (STRTS Inc,), I am writing to express my strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern.

Freight rail is a cornerstone of our state's economy, safely moving the goods that power our industries, support our farmers and connect our communities to markets across the nation and the world. Union Pacific has long been an essential transportation partner for our state, providing efficient, reliable and cost-effective service to businesses large and small. The American freight rail network is not only critical to our economic growth – it is also one of the most sustainable modes of transportation available, helping reduce highway congestion and emissions.

The proposed merger offers a unique opportunity to strengthen this network and deliver tangible benefits for shippers, consumers and communities, including:

- Improved Service Reliability: More direct routes and greater operational flexibility will help prevent service disruptions and improve schedule dependability.
- Reduced Transit Times: Eliminating certain interchanges will speed the movement of goods, helping our businesses reach customers faster and more competitively.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in modern infrastructure, advanced technology and enhanced safety systems.
- Expanded Reach: The broader geographic footprint will open new markets for our state's products and strengthen supply chain resilience.

This merger is about more than just railroads – it's about securing the future of our transportation network, supporting economic development and ensuring American freight rail remains globally competitive.

I respectfully urge the Surface Transportation Board to give full and favorable consideration to this proposal, recognizing the benefits it will bring to our state and the national economy.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, Savage III, Inc. strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At Savage III, Inc., we provide multiple mobile armed uniformed private security officers continuously 24 hours/ 7 days per week/ 365 days per year to supplement the Union Pacific Police Department's effort to deter cargo container burglaries at multiple railyards across South Western States, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.

- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.

- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact delivery of our products and services.

- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster. Moreover, reduced transit times will lower our investment in inventory, allowing us to further invest in our business and employees.

- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, Scott R Beckman Trucking Inc strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.
At Scott R Beckman Trucking Inc., we provide drayage services for Union Pacific's intermodal product, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country. The American freight rail network is the backbone of our operations, enabling us to move products sustainably and efficiently while supporting jobs and economic growth.
We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact supply schedules.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety.
- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a strategic partner of Union Pacific, Service Express is writing to express our strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern.

Service Express is a global leader in data center infrastructure, maintenance, and hardware solutions. Since 1993, they have focused on delivering the best customer experience while empowering employees to reach their goals. Service Express provides end-to-end strategic infrastructure and data center solutions, driven by a people-powered approach that cultivates growth and innovation. Their commitment to sustainability, diversity, and social responsibility is reflected in their certifications and corporate initiatives. By building exceptional teams, technologies, and processes, Service Express drives greater value and success for customers, partners, and employees.

Service Express has been a strategic technology partner to Union Pacific since 2020, playing a central role in powering UP infrastructure and enabling our business-critical operations.

Service Express has partnered with Union Pacific to help support and maintain its mainframe and storage environment. In every program and deployment, it has been our experience that Union Pacific approaches technology with an innovative mindset, pursuing the art of what's possible while maintaining high standards of business continuity and customer experience excellence.

As a strategic partner, Service Express understands the importance of rail to our national infrastructure and the importance of streamlined IT infrastructure at the heart of maintaining commerce. We also have the pleasure of serving many customers and suppliers of Union Pacific, so we understand firsthand how investments in technology modernization represent commitment to safety, growth and innovation.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific strategic partners like us, including:

- Improved Supply Chain Connectivity: The combined network will offer more transparent supply chain visibility, thus enabling products like ours to better serve supply chain IT needs. The modern environment Union Pacific operates with today makes them a true plug-and-play supply chain partner with a bedrock of secure, efficient IT environments.

- Enhanced Customer Experience: The combined network will enable rapid deployment of capabilities to a broader set of customers in a secure and connected manner.

- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in security, infrastructure, technology, and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity, and safety.

- Innovation & Efficiency: Sheer scale of network in a combined transcontinental railroad will enable broader technological innovation, and efficiency, improving customer and supplier experiences by advancing at scale the frameworks Union Pacific employs.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on businesses like ours and the broader economy. We also want to acknowledge the scale and precision that Service Express has witnessed while working with Union Pacific during our long-term engagements. We've seen direct precision execution of large scale, highly impactful technology transitions. Done in a highly secure and surgical way, with emphasis on business continuity and customer experience as unparalleled standards.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued partnership and enhanced service that this merger will bring.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs:
As a community leader in southwest Kansas, reliable rail service is essential for our local economy, businesses and residents. My region is known for large-scale agriculture and biofuels, both of which rely heavily on rail service. The proposed Union Pacific–Norfolk Southern merger offers an opportunity to strengthen these connections and deliver long-term benefits.

The merger promises faster, more dependable service, reduced congestion and expanded market reach for our businesses. It also means continued investment in rail infrastructure – enhancing safety, creating jobs and ensuring our community remains competitive in a growing economy.

On behalf of the Seward County Development Corporation, I respectfully urge the Surface Transportation Board to approve this merger so we can take advantage of the efficiencies, investments and opportunities it will bring - connecting our communities regionally, nationally and across the globe.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, Showtime Transportation of Tampa Inc is pleased to express our strong support for the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At Showtime Transportation of Tampa Inc, we provide corporate ground transportation services worldwide. Our services play an important role in supporting corporate logistics and travel, ensuring safe, efficient, and professional transportation for our clients and their teams. The reliability and strength of the American freight and transportation network are vital to our continued success and to the overall efficiency of commerce across the country. It is our commitment to provide personalized services by paying attention to all the small details and by delivering consistent, on-time, safe transportation for all our clients at Union Pacific.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific has long fostered a culture of operational excellence and partnership with its vendors. We anticipate continued growth opportunities as the company expands its service capacity through the merger.

- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will enhance scheduling consistency and reduce logistical disruptions that impact supplier coordination and delivery.

- Reduced Transit Times: By streamlining coast-to-coast routes, the merger will eliminate delays caused by interchanges and improve the speed and reliability of freight and transportation services.

- Increased Investment: The new transcontinental system will strengthen the capacity for investment in infrastructure, technology, and sustainability—improvements that ultimately benefit the entire transportation supply chain.

- Expanded Reach: A unified coast-to-coast rail network will enhance connectivity and create new opportunities for regional and national suppliers to serve a broader market base.

We recognize and respect the importance of the regulatory review process and encourage the Board to consider the significant positive impacts this merger will have on suppliers, customers, and the national economy.

Thank you for your time and consideration. We look forward to continued partnership and innovation as this merger ushers in a new era for American rail transportation.

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, Siemens Mobility strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At Siemens Mobility, we provide cutting-edge signaling and crossing systems, predictive maintenance technologies, and software solutions for training planning and PTC operations—developed and manufactured in the U.S.—which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient, and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger. As the leading provider of rail signaling, automation, and software solutions, Siemens is uniquely positioned to deliver the advanced products and software solutions needed to integrate and optimize the combined network.
- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones and enhance interoperability and efficiency across a unified transcontinental rail network.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact delivery of our products and services. This creates a stronger platform for implementing smart signaling and real-time monitoring systems that improve safety and reliability.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling the industry to deliver more

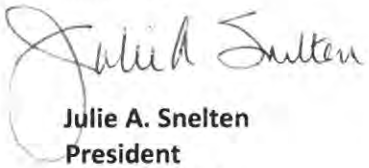
Re: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, Snelten Inc., strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At Snelten, we have provided roadway maintenance, snow removal, trucking, and excavating since 1985, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.



We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

Business growth: UP fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.
Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact deliver of our products and services.
Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster.
Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger (STB Docket FD 36873)

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Norfolk Southern, Southeast Unlimited LLC respectfully submits this letter in support of the proposed merger with Union Pacific.

Our company provides horizontal boring & tunneling for railroad and DOT culverts, along with other track engineering services that are critical to the integrity and efficiency of freight rail operations nationwide. We believe this merger represents a transformative opportunity with clear benefits for both the rail industry and its supply chain.

Specifically, the merger is expected to:

- Promote Business Growth: Norfolk Southern has consistently cultivated strong partnerships with its suppliers, encouraging safe, efficient, and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that the expanded network will create new opportunities for growth as supply demands increase.
- Encourage Investment: A transcontinental railroad will be positioned to increase investment in infrastructure, technology, and equipment. These advancements will strengthen safety, capacity, and service quality, while also stimulating investment and innovation within the supplier community.

We fully recognize the importance of the regulatory review process and encourage the Commission to carefully weigh the merger's potential to strengthen supply chains, enhance competitiveness, and support broader economic growth.

Thank you for your consideration. We remain committed to supporting Norfolk Southern and look forward to contributing to the success of this merger.

Respectfully,

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, Stryten Energy strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At Stryten Energy, we provide KDZ branded locomotive starting batteries and ABSOLYTE single cell batteries for railroad crossing backup, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

Sincerely,

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, Sumitomo Corporation of Americas strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At Sumitomo Corporation of Americas, we provide rails and tie plates, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact delivery of our products and services.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster. Moreover, reduced transit times will lower our investment in inventory, allowing us to further invest in our business and employees.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

I am writing on behalf of Sun Coast Resources, LLC, a RelaDyne Company, a proud supplier of locomotive fueling services to Union Pacific for over 30 years. Additionally, we provide emergency fueling services during natural disasters, which are essential to keeping rail operations running across the country.

We want to express our strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific Railroad and Norfolk Southern, as we believe this partnership will yield significant benefits not only for our company but also for the broader transportation network. Those benefits include:

- Business Growth: The merger is expected to create a more robust and competitive railway system, which will lead to increased demand for locomotive fueling services. As Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern expand their operations, we anticipate a corresponding growth in our business.
- Expanded Reach: The combined network will enhance connectivity across key regions, potentially opening new markets for us. Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.
- Reduced Transit Times: Reduced transit times will streamline and improve rail operations that will allow us to deliver goods to our customers in a shorter timeframe.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, more advanced technology and modern equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. As the railroad invests more in its operations, it creates a ripple effect that translates into increased investment opportunities for our own business.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Dear Chairman Fuchs:

TexAmericas Center, a 12,000-acre industrial park in Northeast Texas, is writing to express our strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern.

Our company depends on efficient, reliable, and cost-effective rail service to meet the needs of our tenants and ensure the safe, timely delivery of their products across the country. At TexAmericas Center, our current and future tenants need to have the ability to transport a wide variety of products to markets across the USA or ship intermodal containers throughout the world. The American freight rail network is a critical component of the national supply chain, allowing our current and future tenants to move large volumes efficiently and sustainably. We understand the importance of rail to our current and future tenants, their products, and our national economy. We also understand firsthand how these rail networks need new investments, and new commitments for growth and innovation, so that TexAmericas Center has a bright future.

We believe that the proposed merger will enhance competition and yield significant benefits for Union Pacific users like our current and future tenants, including:

- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and greater flexibility, minimizing the risk of service disruptions.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling our current and future tenants to deliver more goods to end users faster.

TIDEWATER

The Honorable Patrick J. Fuchs
Chairman
Surface Transportation Board

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, Tidewater Terminal Company strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

Tidewater Terminal Company provides fuel supply chain logistics and terminal services to Union Pacific at its main classification yard in Hinkle, Oregon. The timely and efficient provision of these services are essential to keeping commerce moving and the timely and smooth operation of Union Pacific rail service across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply chain demands expand as a result of the merger.

- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to potentially expand our services and reach new customers.

- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions resulting in more consistent freight volumes and increased fuel requirements.

- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, which supports volume growth and concomitant demand for our supply chain services.

- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger (STB Docket FD 36873)

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

Transportation Insight is pleased to express its support for the proposed merger between Norfolk Southern and Union Pacific. As a leading third-party logistics provider serving hundreds of manufacturers, distributors, and retailers across North America, we recognize this transaction as a pivotal opportunity to strengthen the nation's freight transportation infrastructure and enhance long-term supply chain competitiveness.

The combination of Norfolk Southern and Union Pacific will create an unprecedented coast-to-coast rail network, enabling faster and more reliable east-west service while eliminating many interchange inefficiencies. The integration promises meaningful improvements in velocity, service reliability, and capacity utilization that directly benefit shippers, suppliers, and logistics partners.

For Transportation Insight and the clients we serve, the merger represents several key advantages:

1. Improved network velocity and reliability, reducing interchange dwell and enhancing overall trip plan performance.
2. Greater supply chain resilience, with balanced capacity across the network and expanded routing flexibility.
3. Operational and cost efficiency, as the integrated rail system streamlines service and reduces dependence on congested truck corridors.
4. Sustainability and ESG advancement, as expanded intermodal options and longer rail hauls will lower greenhouse gas emissions, reduce highway congestion, and contribute to U.S. emission-reduction goals.
5. Business and economic growth, with new market connectivity that will stimulate regional investment, attract industrial development near key terminals, and create growth opportunities for suppliers, logistics partners, and local communities.

Transportation Insight believes this merger will strengthen the U.S. rail system while advancing shared goals for efficiency, sustainability, and growth. By expanding the reach and reliability of rail, the combined organization can deliver meaningful value to shippers, suppliers, and logistics partners nationwide.

We encourage the Surface Transportation Board to recognize the broad economic and environmental benefits this merger will bring to the nation's freight network.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, TLS, Inc. strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At TLS, Inc., we provide transportation and maintenance services, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact delivery of our products and services.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster. Moreover, reduced transit times will lower our investment in inventory, allowing us to further invest in our business and employees.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.
Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a long-standing partner and supplier to Union Pacific, Transportes Gasa is proud to express our strong support for the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

For more than four decades, Transportes Gasa has specialized in cross-border transportation, connecting Mexico and the United States through safe, reliable, and sustainable logistics solutions. Today, our company provides drayage services for Union Pacific's intermodal product via Mexico rail terminals, which is a critical link in ensuring the smooth and efficient flow of freight across North America. This partnership has not only strengthened our business, but also allowed us to contribute to regional economic development and job creation.

We believe that the proposed merger will deliver meaningful benefits to companies like ours and the customers we serve, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific has consistently fostered an environment where its suppliers can thrive. We are confident that the expansion created by this merger will allow us to scale our operations to meet greater demand while continuing to provide cost-effective, safe, and innovative solutions.
- Improved Service Reliability: A unified network will create more direct routes and greater operational flexibility, helping reduce interruptions that affect supply chains and ultimately strengthening service to shippers on both sides of the border.
- Reduced Transit Times: Fewer interchanges mean shorter transit times. For us, this translates directly into faster, more predictable deliveries for customers, and an opportunity to better compete in a fast-moving marketplace.
- Increased Investment: With stronger financial and operational capacity, the merged railroad will be positioned to invest in modern infrastructure, technology, and equipment, further improving safety and efficiency throughout the freight network.
- Expanded Reach: Access to a broader geographic footprint will enable Transportes Gasa to extend our services, grow our customer base, and strengthen our role in connecting U.S. and Mexican markets.

We fully respect the importance of regulatory oversight in this process. From our perspective as a supplier directly tied to the cross-border freight network, this merger represents an opportunity to create a stronger, more competitive, and more resilient rail system that benefits not only Union Pacific and its partners, but also the wider economy.

Re: Support for the Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs:

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, JUMA Transportation strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At JUMA Transportation, we provide drayage services for Union Pacific's intermodal product through rail terminals in Mexico, which is essential for the safe and efficient transportation of freight across the country. The U.S. freight rail network is the backbone of our operations, allowing us to transport products sustainably and efficiently while driving jobs and economic growth.

We believe the proposed merger will generate significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

• Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient, and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate our business will grow as the company's supply demand increases as a result of the merger.

• Increased Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and greater operational flexibility, helping to reduce service disruptions that can impact supply schedules.

• New Markets: The combination of the two rail networks will allow shippers in key markets to access more efficient transportation and new routes.

• Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where carloads are turned over, the combination will reduce transit times by several days, allowing us to deliver more freight to more customers more quickly. • Increased investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better

TRI-CITIES INTERMODAL

September 19, 2025

The Honorable Patrick J. Fuchs
Chairman
Surface Transportation Board
395 E Street SW
Washington, DC 20423

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a long-time customer of Union Pacific, I am writing to express my strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern.

Our company is somewhat unique. We are a private inland port, located on the Union Pacific's premium intermodal network. This did not happen by itself. It was the result of a lot of hard work, entrepreneurial initiative, and close cooperation with a number of Union Pacific team members. It is this attitude of "achieve the possible" espoused by CEO Vena that excites me about the possibilities arising out of the intended merger.

Our company depends on efficient, reliable, and cost-effective rail service to meet the needs of customers and ensure the safe, timely delivery of our products across the country. At Tri-Cities Intermodal, we transport hay, grain, seed and various other agriculture products to both domestic and international markets.

For farmers trying to sell their products in a difficult global market, our service may mean the difference between making a foreign sale or losing the opportunity to other countries. Consider that the cost of moving 300 miles from farm to port can cost six times the amount to ship 6,000 miles by water. Our service makes a difference. Until we started this service last year, there was no truck alternative available.

We believe that the proposed merger will enhance competition and yield significant benefits for Union Pacific customers like us, including improved service reliability and reduced transit times. Furthermore, the expanded reach of the new network will provide a framework for us to offer additional innovative intermodal solution partnerships.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on businesses like ours and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued partnership and enhanced service that this merger will bring.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

TrinityRail is a key supplier to Union Pacific of freight railcars and railcar services, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country. The relationship between TrinityRail and Union Pacific has not only been beneficial for both companies economically but also for their many employees.

TrinityRail supports the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact delivery of our products and services.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster. Moreover, reduced transit times should create more opportunities for modal conversion.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology, and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy. We see the transaction as beneficial, and we do not anticipate negative impacts to our company or market competition.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

Sincerely,

Charley Moore

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

On behalf of USTech Solutions, I am writing to express our strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern.

USTech Solutions is a leading global provider of talent, digital transformation, and technology services, helping organizations drive innovation, agility, and efficiency across their operations. With over two decades of experience, we have supported Fortune 500 companies and government entities in delivering cutting-edge workforce and IT solutions. Our team of over 10,000 professionals serves clients across North America, Europe, and Asia, helping them to adapt and grow in today's evolving business landscape.

As a strategic technology and workforce partner of Union Pacific, USTech Solutions has been engaged in supporting critical initiatives in technology enablement, workforce optimization, and business continuity. Our collaboration spans across multiple functions, ensuring the railroad has access to high-quality, scalable talent and digital resources that support its modernization and long-term infrastructure goals.

We believe the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern will deliver transformational benefits, not only for the two railroads involved but also for their extended ecosystem of partners, suppliers, and customers. Specifically, we anticipate the following positive outcomes:

- Stronger National Transportation Network: A unified rail system will create a more resilient and efficient freight network across the country. As service providers to Union Pacific and several of its connected vendors, we believe this merger will streamline coordination and reduce logistical bottlenecks that impact workforce deployment and project timelines.
- Increased Operational Efficiency: Combining resources, technologies, and talent across both companies will result in more agile operations, enabling accelerated delivery of both physical infrastructure and digital transformation initiatives.
- Technology Investment at Scale: The enhanced financial and operational scale will allow the merged entity to invest more aggressively in next-generation technologies, cybersecurity, automation, and sustainability, creating new opportunities for partners like USTech Solutions to contribute to high-impact services.
- Job Creation and Talent Development: As a workforce solutions company, we see firsthand how strategic growth initiatives like this drive new demand for skilled professionals, including in areas such as data engineering, logistics technology, cloud computing, and supply chain systems.

We recognize the critical role of regulatory oversight in this decision, and we respectfully encourage the Surface Transportation Board to consider the positive implications this merger will have across the broader economy. Our experience working with Union Pacific has shown us a partner that is not only committed to innovation and operational excellence, but also deeply focused on strategic execution and collaborative success.

Thank you for considering our perspective. We look forward to continuing our partnership with Union Pacific and supporting the expanded vision and opportunity this merger represents.

Sincerely,

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger (STB Docket FD 36873)

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Norfolk Southern, Virginia Crane strongly supports the proposed merger with Union Pacific.

At Virginia Crane, we provide Overhead Bridge Cranes, Locomotive Turntables, and custom engineered material handling solutions which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Norfolk Southern's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Norfolk Southern fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

Sincerely,

- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact delivery of our products and services.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster. Moreover, reduced transit times will lower our investment in inventory, allowing us to further invest in our business and employees.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Re: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs:

As a longtime partner and strategic supplier to Union Pacific, voestalpine Railway Systems Nortrak LLC ("Nortrak") strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

At Nortrak, we design and manufacture special trackwork materials and railroad signaling products, and provide advanced railroad infrastructure monitoring services, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, and strengthen the broader United States economy, in several key areas:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will continue to grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.

- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint through the company merger-driven enhancement of the transcontinental railroad network will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.

- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact delivery of our products and services.

- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster. Moreover, reduced transit times will lower our investment in inventory, allowing us to further invest in our business and employees.

- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business, as we will be able to accelerate our plans to enhance research and development into new technologies, products, and advanced services, benefitting both the merged company and the United States railroad industry as a whole.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader United States economy, now and for years to come.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster. Moreover, reduced transit times will lower our investment in inventory, allowing us to further invest in our business and employees.
- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in infrastructure, technology and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity and safety. Increased investment from the railroad translates to increased investment in our own business.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on suppliers like us and the broader economy.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued growth, innovation and partnership that this merger will bring.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a proud supplier to Union Pacific, Wilson & Company, Inc., Engineers & Architects (Wilson & Company) strongly supports the proposed merger with Norfolk Southern.

For over 22 years, Wilson & Company has been providing engineering and construction administration services, which are essential to the safe and smooth operation of freight rail service across the country.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific's suppliers and partners, including:

- Business Growth: Union Pacific fosters an environment where suppliers can thrive while meeting the company's needs for safe, efficient and cost-effective solutions. We anticipate that our own business will grow as the company's supply demands expand as a result of the merger.
- Expanded Reach: Our ability to access a broader geographic footprint will allow us to better serve our customers and reach new ones.
- Improved Service Reliability: The combined network will offer more direct routes and increased operational flexibility, helping reduce service interruptions that can impact delivery of our products and services.
- Reduced Transit Times: By eliminating interchanges where rail cars are handed off, the combination will remove several days from transit times, enabling us to deliver more goods to more customers, faster. Moreover, reduced transit times will lower our investment in inventory, allowing us to further invest in our business and employees.

Subject: Support for Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern Merger

Dear Chairman Fuchs,

As a strategic partner of Union Pacific, Zones is writing to express our strong support for the proposed merger between Union Pacific and Norfolk Southern.

Zones is a global IT solutions provider specializing in comprehensive services across the entire technology lifecycle.

With a presence in over 100 countries, Zones delivers tailored solutions in cloud computing, networking, cybersecurity, digital workplace transformation, and IT asset management. Known for their customer-centric approach, Zones partners with clients across industries including healthcare, education, government, transportation and retail to drive innovation, agility, and sustainable growth.

Zones has been a strategic partner of Union Pacific since 2000 and has partnered with Union Pacific on several IT modernization initiatives including end point, networking, and compute. In every program and deployment, it has been our experience that Union Pacific approaches technology with an innovative mindset, pursuing the art of what's possible, while maintaining high standards of business continuity and customer experience excellence.

As a strategic partner, Zones understands the importance of rail to our national infrastructure and the importance of streamlined IT infrastructure at the heart of maintaining commerce. We also have the pleasure of serving many customers and suppliers of Union Pacific, so we understand firsthand how investments in technology modernization represent commitment to safety, growth and innovation.

We believe that the proposed merger will yield significant benefits for Union Pacific strategic partners like us, including:

- Improved Supply Chain Connectivity: The combined network will offer more transparent supply chain visibility, thus enabling products like ours to better serve supply chain IT needs. The modern environment Union Pacific operates with today makes them a true plug-and-play supply chain partner with a bedrock of secure, efficient IT environments.

- Enhanced Customer Experience: The combined network will enable rapid deployment of capabilities to a broader set of customers in a secure and connected manner.

- Increased Investment: The transcontinental railroad will be better positioned to invest in security, infrastructure, technology, and equipment, further improving service quality, capacity, and safety.

- Innovation & Efficiency: Sheer scale of network in a combined transcontinental railroad will enable broader technological innovation, and efficiency, improving customer and supplier experiences by advancing at scale the frameworks Union Pacific employs.

We understand that regulatory review is an important part of this process, and we encourage the relevant authorities to carefully consider the positive impact this merger will have on businesses like ours and the broader economy.

We also want to acknowledge the scale and precision that Union Pacific has demonstrated during our long-term partnership. We have witnessed their meticulous execution of large-scale, highly impactful technology transitions. These transitions were carried out in a highly secure and precise manner, with an emphasis on business continuity and customer experience, setting unparalleled standards.

Thank you for your consideration of our perspective. We look forward to the continued partnership and enhanced service that this merger will bring.
